March 30, 1973

Gentlemen:

Mrs. John Ehrlichman was a guest in your hotel earlier this month, departing there on March 19. In the confusion of checking out, she remembers having her camera with her when her baggage was taken downstairs, but thinks she may have left it on the sidewalk or in the lobby when she departed. I have spoken with your general manager who tells me that no cameras have been turned in; however, if one does turn up, with the following description, could you please forward it on to Mrs. John Ehrlichman, The White House, Washington, D. C. 20500.

It was a Retina 35 mm, in a brown case, and was identified with the name Ehrlichman on either the camera or the case.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely yours,

(Miss) Jana Hruska
Secretary to John D. Ehrlichman

Dear Leon,

I was distressed to receive your note letting me know of your father-in-law's passing.

While I know that words can be of little comfort at a time like this, I want you to know that you and Mary Jane have my deepest sympathy. Please let me know if there is anything I can do for you.

Best personal regards.

Yours sincerely,

John D. Ehrlichman

8 November 1968

Dear Dick:

Admiral George W. Anderson
1629 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.
Telephone: (202) - 296-4558

(Former Chief of Naval Operations during early part of Kennedy Administration)

George Anderson is a star. He is very much on our team.

His age is 61. He possesses an incisive mind, the courage of his convictions, and is a very articulate speaker. Moreover, he is blessed with a most engaging personality.

As I understand it, the President had asked him personally to take charge of the military operations at the time of the Cuban crisis. When MacNamara tried to interfere in the control room, he ordered MacNamara out. He had not been sympathetic to the MacNamara policies and, apparently, Kennedy yielded to MacNamara's pleasure. Admiral Anderson was transferred to the position of Ambassador to Portugal.

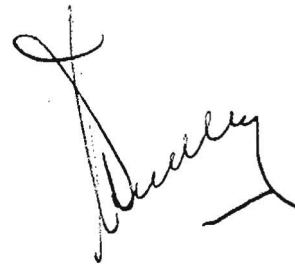

He is not seeking office. In fact, as a naval officer on retired pay, he may not be eligible for federal office, but he would certainly be available to serve as an informal adviser and helper at the White House, and I recommend him to you most highly.

Best always,

The Honorable Richard M. Nixon

WILLIAM J. CASEY - Rider

1. Extensive law practice in financial, corporate and international matters - seasoned negotiator and innovator of financial, institutional, contractual mechanisms.

2. Organized, directed and developed substantial businesses in publishing, chain broadcasting, photography, agriculture, computer technology and information retrieval.

3. Have a flair for grasping, evaluating and utilizing new technologies - starting with communications and air navigational techniques used in resistance and intelligence activities in World War II and continuing in legal and business activities. Have worked with engineers and scientists in various corporations and research shops.

4. For International Rescue Committee, as Chairman of Executive Committee, have worked on Eastern European, Chinese, Cuban, African and Vietnam refugee problems, kept informed on the situation in hostile countries, worked with other relief organizations, and traveled to Vietnam, Hong Kong, Czechoslovakia.

5. As a director of the National Strategy Information Center, have been active in developing material and conducting programs to educate businessmen, journalists, ROTC students and others in the requirements of national defense. We use the best scholars from the universities and defense think tanks to lecture and hold seminars for Young Presidents, Chambers of Commerce, newspaper editors, etc. We also get research on the more sophisticated phases of military technology and strategy where it will do the most good in developing an informed public opinion on the requirements of national security. This has kept me posted on a broad range of national defense and foreign policy thinking, as well as on the new threats to internal stability.

6. In 1943 and 1944, worked on the coordination of French resistance forces with the Allied landings in Normandy and the liberation of France. This developed an insight into guerilla warfare, psychological operations and the relative capabilities and competing claims of air, ground and irregular forces. Have read everything that comes along on this and kept in touch with French resistance friends who went through Vietnam and Algiers, and British colleagues who struggled in Malaya and elsewhere.

7. In 1966, refreshed this by visiting all sections of Vietnam and developed a 7 point military and political program which looks pretty good in retrospect.

8. As Chief of OSS Intelligence in Europe, was responsible for dealing with intelligence services of British and all European governments-in-exile (military and diplomatic).

9. Have kept in touch with European resistance leaders, particularly in France; many of them are Cabinet Ministers and chairmen of legislative committees. Resistance veterans constitute an informal lodge in Europe.

10. As Associate General Counsel for the Marshall Plan, worked on investment guarantees, procurement arrangements, other policy matters. Got to know European economic methods and institutions. Law practice and business interests have kept me reasonably familiar with economic methods and developments in Europe, Japan and Latin America.

11. In 1940-42, "wrote the book" - a detailed service for Research Institute - on all phases of industrial mobilization and military procurement. Did consulting jobs for War Production Board and worked six months on Navy procurement. Have since done military contract and renegotiation work in law practice.

12. Served on two committees - 1945 and 1946 - planning CIA - studied American intelligence needs and utilization; methods and organization of foreign intelligence services.

13. Known to and know leaders of American intelligence community - Allen Dulles, Dick Helm, General Quinn, Deputy Director Bross, former Executive Officer Kirkpatrick now at Brown University, others at lower levels.

14. Keep abreast of all books on foreign and military affairs published in the United States and Britain. Read Foreign Affairs, International Affairs, East and West, other journals regularly; also three British Sunday newspapers and Economist every week.

15. Have traveled to Russia, throughout Middle East, Far East, Africa, all of Western Europe.

16. Recently initiated, at National Strategy Information Center, studies on how we can make more effective use of manpower, training and informational skills, economic and technological assets in post-Vietnam era.

Name

Dear John:

Milton Katz is Director of the Center for International Legal Studies at Harvard Law School. He has an unusually broad familiarity and deep understanding in a wide range of national policy matters. He has served in the past as:

- Ambassador-at-Large in Europe for the Marshall Plan
- Associate Director of the Ford Foundation
- Adviser to Secretary Fowler on international monetary matters.
- Leader in the formation of OECD and European Currency Union.
- Adviser to James Forrestal and Ferdinand Eberstadt in unifying the Armed Forces and creating the Department of Defense.

His political orientation has been Republican. He has opposed the Galbraiths, the Schlesingers and the other Kennedyites at Harvard. He was particularly active in supporting George Lodge against Teddy Kennedy in their Senatorial contest. Cabot Lodge, Arthur Dean, John McCoy and Henry Kissenger all know him well.

I know him intimately and have the highest regard for him. I served as his Deputy when he was General Counsel for the Marshall Plan in Europe, and he served as my Deputy when I was Chief of the OSS Intelligence Service in Europe.

I believe he is ripe for another period of public service.

Bill Casey
