Film History

This series of fifty-one cans of color positive, negative, and magnetic track film, are out-takes and preprint material from the 1973, United States Information Agency film, "Inauguration." This eleven minute, forty-seven-second film, narrated by Charlton Heston, was used overseas only, for a period of two years. In 1977 they transferred this film, along with it's out-takes, to the custody of the National Archives and Records Administrations Motion Picture, Sound and Video Branch (NNSM). Due to the nature of the footage NNSM transferred custody the out-take portions to the Nixon Projects (NLNP).

The following is a synopsis of the edited film "Inauguration," from the USIA Retired Film and Video Catalogue:

Documents the second inaugural of President Richard Nixon on January 20, 1973. Opens with the festivities of the preceding day, recalls, via drawings, the first U.S. presidential inauguration, that of George Washington in New York City, 1789, and then shows President Nixon's swearing-in, excerpts of his speech and parade highlights. Closes on a historical note with shots of the Capitol and Washington D.C.'s famous monuments.

Film History

This series of one-Hundred-thirty-six cans of color positive, negative, and composite film, are out-takes and projection print material from the 1969, United States Information Agency film, "The First Step-President Nixon's European Visit." This thirty minute film, was used overseas only, for a period of eight years. In 1978 they transferred this film, along with it's out-takes, to the custody of the National Archives and Records Administrations Motion Picture, Sound and Video Branch (NNSM). Due to the nature of the footage NNSM transferred custody the out-take portions to the Nixon Projects (NLNP).

The following is a synopsis of the edited film "The First Step," from the USIA Retired Film and Video Catalogue:

Highlights President Nixon's European visit, February 25 through March 3, 1969. Depicts the warm welcome given the new U.S. President and his visits with the leaders of France, Germany, England, Belgium, and Italy.
