Sunday, January 31.

In the Virgin Islands. No contact with the President all-day. He had apparently a pretty good day with a boat ride in the morning out to an island, where they swam in and used a private beach.

Also a drive in the afternoon.

Bebe did get me at one point late in the day to explain that the Pat Nixon problem was back on us to a very serious degree for the entire day Saturday and today. And that it had gotten to the point where the President was unable to deal with it so had just stayed away. Bebe's afraid we get a reaction in the form of an early return tomorrow but probably not.
