Conversation with Al Sindlinger, April 17, 1972

S: Now, I've got this question I've been asking, it's been on for about 12 days now... did I tell you the questionnaire?

C: I haven't seen it, Al.

S: I should have sent it to you. The first question, "have you read or heard anything on the radio or television lately about the fact that the war in Vietnam has been stepped up?" And we're getting about 80% saying yes to it. "In reference to the war in Vietnam, what is the most recent news that you recall reading or hearing about?" And the daily headlines are played back for about 12-15 hours and... last week we had about 50 guys that refused and then that disappeared. Yesterday's interviewing, of course, was coming up on the Russians. The Russians are finally admitting they are in Vietnam, these comments are coming through and the hawks are coming out, I would say, we've almost got 40% hawks now.

C: Is that right?

S: They're coming out.

C: Are you getting that last night after the bombing?

S: Yes. "Let's get the goddamned thing over with", "What's Russia doing in this?" and also I'm picking up some reaction that Nixon should cancel his Russian trip.

C: Jesus, that's fascinating. As this breaks, you know, we're going to want to really play it.

S: Now, what's going through my mind now, is what am I going, what is he going to do with it? This is a fantastic setting.

C: Well, I think what we want to do with it Al is bring you down here and have a press conference. I'd like to play this as a hell of a press thing. You could make some national publicity out of this.

S: Well, now, remember I told you that I did the study on _____'s Prime Minister? Did I tell you about that?

C: I think you did.
S: And we were getting this high response among females who said that drugs is not our number one problem and they were talking about food prices and this was run just before the Connally thing. Well, I want to put that question back on. I can't put it on right now, but I want to put that back on and I threw it on last night for a few interviews, I had it on when I was monitoring and the food price thing I think has disappeared.

C: Isn't that marvelous.

S: That thing has disappeared and now they're talking about it is back as the number one problem -- drugs -- but what is coming through here is that the size of doves is not changing, that's just a straight through and we're getting voluntary remarks "that stupid Muskie, what the hell is he talking about","this is not the time to talk like that this is the time to rally", he's really burying himself. He's dead.

C: Have you gotten a lot of comments like that, Al?

S: Yes. And McGovern negative reactions. All of his support is in that 20%. His solid support is there and the idea of cutting taxes and promising all this, that's poppycock, let's get to the issues. The issue is inflation and getting the war in Vietnam over.

C: Well, those are the two we're working on. We're in the right posture there. How soon could you get figures that would enable you to come and testify?

S: Well, I ought to have 3 or 4 days of the Russian attitude. Did I hear someplace that there's a, the night session of the Foreign Relations Committee?

C: No, it's this morning but it will be televised, retelevised tonight.

S: I think I ought to pick up some reactions to that. What do you think will happen there?

C: Well, they'll give Bill Rogers a working over, but he'll be good, he's great.

S: What's the motive?

C: Oh, political. It's going to revitalize the war issue and get everybody mad at the Administration. I think it's going to work just the other way. Because the public figure will after 2 weeks of raiding the South, what in hell is wrong with bombing them?

S: And that's exactly what we're getting. And as, , , the reaction is we're not doing enough. We have a couple people mentioning the atomic bomb. This is frightening.
C: It doesn't frighten me, I'd be all for it. I think it would end the goddamned thing.

S: It's pretty clear that Russia now is certainly admitting that they're there. Now why would the Russians be so stupid?

C: Well, because I think they figure they can't get away with not doing it, Al.

S: Forced into the problem.

C: How soon could you have a press conference down here if we were to arrange it?

S: Well, now would that be good though?

C: Hell, I think it would be terrific. Come down to Washington and say that you've been polling, in addition to your economic polls you've been conducting polls on the public's attitude on the war and you find it very startling.

S: Wouldn't it be better if I arranged it myself rather than you?

C: Oh, we wouldn't, ... what we would do is if you had...

S: but...

C: What we would do, Al, is if you set it up down here where you'll get twice as much publicity as you could get in Swarthmore. Then we can tip off friends in the networks and they'll come and cover it. You see, we can magnify your publicity, like we did before.

S: Alright, that's the way to do it. What about...

C: You'd set it up, we wouldn't set it up. You come down here, you announce it in advance and then we tip off the people and that way we can assure that you'll get a lot of national press.

S: Well, I think we ought to have about 3 or 4 more days on the Russian thing...

C: Well, then let's shoot for Wednesday or Thursday, could you have your data tabulated by then?

S: Couldn't have it by Wednesday, I have a client meeting with Genesco in Nashville tomorrow and I'd need Wednesday... could do it Thursday.

C: That would be beautiful, ideal. I'll tell you why. The American Society of Newspaper Editors are here in Washington and they would read it locally and you'd probably get some editorials out of it. See this kind of thing gets you some good publicity because it gets that name out in front of the public and it would be carried, there's no question about that.
S: Well, this is the most fantastic study.

C: I think we ought to do it. Let's shoot for Thursday. Why don't you keep going, I'll keep in touch with you.
Conv~rsation with Al Sindlinger, April 17, 1972

S: Sunday, interviewing and Jesus, Muskie and Humphrey have collapsed. And Wallace and McGovern have shot way up and Wallace has got himself in a box because he's now appealing to the doves who want taxes cut. Boy has he got himself in a box.

C: Well, let's see, he doesn't care where his votes come from!

S: I know but that's not a very solid faith. But, on females Humphrey's down to 7.2 and Muskie to 3.6, Wallace is up to 11.7, Nixon is up to 38.7 on the first choice among males. Nixon's just lost a little...no, it's 51.2, he's up. Humphrey's 6.1, Muskie's 4.3, Kennedy 3.7, Wallace 13.5, McGovern 4.9.

C: How many interviews is that?

S: It's about 600.

C: That's a pretty good sample. I wonder if you could tab those dove/hawk questions.

S: That's what I'm going to do. I'm going to cross tab them.

C: That would be fascinating.

S: And the same thing is happening today from the interviews I've been listening to.

C: The same thing on the hawk/dove, bombing?

S: Yep. So, this is...will wreck Humphrey and Muskie.

C: That's putting them on the limb.

S: And this Wallace coming up, that's pretty interesting.

C: The trouble is these guys don't stay wrecked very long. That's the trouble.

S: Well, I think Muskie's done.

C: Well, it's going to be a hell of a ballgame. I'll be anxious to hear what you get on that bombing results. And I'll send you up that list of people right away.

S: So I'm working on the date. But isn't that fascinating?

C: I should say.

S: Just what a couple of days can do.

C: We want a couple days like this just before the election. I'll be back to you.
