MEMORANDUM FOR: MR. MAGRUDER
FROM: GORDON STRACHAN
SUBJECT: Nationality Groups

You might want to consider having a Task Force on nationality groups.

Bob is concerned that Lauslo Pastor deals only with the staunch Republican groups to the probable exclusion of other potential voters.

Could you advise us by March 22 of the status of this project?

Thank you.

FROM:                   GORDON STRACHAN
SUBJECT:                "Youth for Nixon"

One of the task forces that Magruder is establishing deals with youth in general and the 18-20 year old voter in particular. Magruder has received a copy of Walker’s memorandum describing Dewey Clower’s information and Tom Bell’s offer to organize a nation-wide group.

Appropriate follow-up should enable us to grasp this opportunity.

SUBJECT:      Voter Groups

Colson suggested on March 8 that we call a planning meeting to assess our political opportunities with certain groups (labor, suburbanites, Jews, Blacks, etc.). He believes that Earlichman, Rumsfeld, Finch, Garment, and Fletcher should get together with you.

An alternative, which might be more productive, would be to have that group meet as a Task Force with a young staff member, such as Dick Howard, to keep track of suggestions and solutions. The Task Force could submit periodic recommendations to you for review.

Media

What role will the media play in the 1970's and how will it affect and be affected by social change?

During the 1970's, the media will play a significant role in the social and political changes taking place. Here are some of the most significant changes predicted by The Urban Reporter:

1. State and/or national policies will be set to limit public utility advertising. Environmentalists are placing heavy pressure on utilities to become more responsive to pollution and energy depletion. Two recent incidents suggest that utilities are becoming more responsive to these pressures. In Oregon, the Public Utility Commissioner, Sam Haley, has proposed a rule to restrict utility advertising and other promotional programs, which calls for a $3.00 per customer per year limit on advertising. The measure has the support of the Sierra Club, but it may be challenged in court. In Memphis, the Memphis Light, Gas and Water Division has voluntarily started an advertising campaign that emphasizes conservation of power through better insulation of new homes, less frequent use of major appliances, and turning off of unneeded lights. Carl Crawford, the company's public relations director, said that, "By using electricity more efficiently, customers cut down electric bills and at the same time conserve natural energy."

2. Political advertising on radio and TV will be used less during the 1970's. Even though President Nixon vetoed the bill to limit expenditures on political advertising, the result of the 1970 elections will convince politicians that "hard sell" campaigns can no longer be counted on to get the votes. More specifically, a recent survey indicated that news coverage and editorials influence undecided voters far more than advertising. The survey was conducted by Walter DeVries, political consultant to the successful re-election campaign of Michigan's GOP Governor William Milliken. The findings came from a telephone survey conducted last May among 809 Michigan voters who were undecided or who had split their tickets in previous elections.

   He asked respondents to rank 36 factors in terms of their importance in affecting voter decisions. The factors were then ranked on a scale of 0 (least important) to 11 (most important). The following chart lists the 20 factors most directly related to the media:

MEMORANDUM

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON
February 11, 1971

CAMPAIGN '72:

1. Users Needs - I would say the basic needs are: a) the ability to respond to a charge, accusation or opportunity almost immediately. The best way to do this is probably with a responsive network into the government b) provide background for speeches, position papers, particularly on major issues, for example, what we said we would do, what we are doing, what we are planning to do c) provide background, creativity, and specific exploitable items for opposition attack d) provide an up-to-the-minute news summary and news alert (I will assume that this function is not handled by us but rather by the current news summary people) e) provide the ability to disseminate the information by letter to desired recipients, by telex or whatever.

I talked with Marty Anderson January 22. He mentioned that the information needs to get out to the candidates it can be interpreted there in light of what the basic question was. He felt the RNC would serve for opposition research. We should find a Muskie man and use him starting now. Have him travel with Muskie, learn about Muskie, etc., but you can't depend on the RNC without very close supervision. On issue analysis, he felt the problem was not getting and storing the information, but dragging it out with a sense of urgency. In 1970 they used an ad hoc chain with contact points throughout the government to get information. They also had a man, Dick Burres, who went to all the meetings in the White House and was the guy to feed information back to the Vice President so the Vice President would be up-to-date on the positions. They positioned not to pull all of the information together but rather to build a structure so response and information can be gotten quickly. You can't predict what information you will want. He thought we should verify 12 - 15 major issues and make sure all the votes on those issues are known rather than trying to keep detailed voting analyses on every single question. He said he wouldn't use micro-film or computer. He would have one guy with five file cabinets that knew everything there was to know about Muskie because the total search time is slight compared to all the other lags in the system, so he's big on taking the money and using it for good people.
Check Lieheng in on February 5 felt we should have crisp fact sheets on each major issue that really address the situation. The propaganda sheets can be developed from these but we need to face up to the real facts on the major issues. He agreed with the network business, but also felt you needed a file of both attack and defense material. He would actually start work with what we have and use on dry runs -- be sure to check the unfavorable material on the opposition so we don't get caught with our feet in our mouth. He doesn't think we need Truman expert such as he was in '48. He likes the Muskie man idea of Anderson. He would not have a Humphrey and/or a Kennedy man this time.

George Grassmuck on February 5 felt the major key was to pull the Administration and the RNC together and develop understandings on who should do what. The RNC has time and the approaches we don't have are stable. The key is to get a commonality of purpose with Bill, Louie and others of his level and the White House people so that everybody is working toward the same goal. He likes the Muskie part now and would have this man (he has what Muskie would do). In '48 they had an ensemble band. The RNC had one for their people and the President had one that would get answers quickly. Both had access to the same set of facts. They also had a truth squad. Congressmen and Senators that followed the opposition candidate the next day then had their regular the truth. This truth squad was very dependent on where the opposition was or had been. The network should also feel trouble or whether good thing and should let us know when something is being told an objective reaction so we can be ready to counter. We should also do a better job in having our Schedule C reinforce the President's statements.

Perhaps we should endogonize our new Schedule Cs. On mailing lists, he felt that an automatic mailing to, for example, company presidents, didn't make much sense because certain times of the year company presidents are too busy to read anything. It would be better to save material and send it to him when he is not busy just like a college president shouldn't get much stuff in the summer because he is probably gone. He feels that housewives are much more likely to read something than their husbands, and that the cover letter on our mailings should give information and abstract the article in a factual fashion. Looking toward the campaign, in the last three months of a campaign, to work well, everything should be pointed to politics, if done, and effect.
In total, it looks like there are several complimentary systems that are needed. Now we should set up a Muskie map so that he can start getting the feel and facts on Muskie. We should work towards a file system on opposition and Administration statements, look towards a set of fact sheets at the appropriate time, and start building a responsive network.

2. Information Retrieval -- There are three basic systems of information retrieval that I am familiar with. One is a full text retrieval system on the computer where you store the entire document on the computer and the computer indexes by word so that you can search by word. For example, you can look for combinations of the words Musk, Kosygin, foreign policy, and all articles which have those three words occurring within 15 words of each other can be kicked out so that you can look at them. This eliminates the need to code articles. Coding is mainly a problem because you must code an article now for a campaign several years in the future without knowing what issues will be critical or what terminology will be used in the future, hence many good articles are coded incorrectly for the future. We have a company in Virginia we have discussed full text retrieval with on a fairly detailed basis. They did have a system for the Department of Defense where they put all of the Laird's and Packard's public statements on Defense. This worked very well.

The major disadvantage: The input side - we first looked at putting everything into the computer that now goes on Micro-film. The cost of that would be in the five hundred thousand dollar a year range which is wasteful considering how little of it is really relevant; however, the more recent look at the minimum you would put in which would be the direct speeches and direct quotes, for example, on Musk, estimated $40,000 for one year's input on 8 - 10 people or the stable of potential opposition candidates. That's $40,000 for one year. If we wanted to add four year's quotes that would obviously be $160,000. Putting the President and Vice President would cost more like $250,000 per year.

A government system is being worked on now by NSC which will have all of the President's documents and statements on. This system however, will not be operational until late '72.

The second type of storage facility is a Micro-film capability such as the NSC has now. In this type the articles are stored on Micro-film and coded with about 4 or 5 parameters or titles per article. On the surface this mechanism would seem perfectly adequate as long as coding was done well.
The third type is strictly a manual file with sub-headings. The problem here is cross-filing the several types of subjects that are carried in many speeches or articles.

The key in all of these information storage and retrieval systems is that the information you get out is no better than the information you put in and the way that it is coded. I really think that a major factor in the demonstrated weakness of the current system is the lack of political savvy of the people putting the articles in. They put in many too many standard articles and don't search out and find the really relevant pieces. This is where, of course, a Munsell man would have his biggest impact.

3. Mailing -- The mailing system we have now is relatively shallow, but reasonably effective at getting material out to people. The next questions are: is it effective? do people read it? are there not many more people to whom you should be sending more individually tailored material? Right now there are 150,000 names on our master mailing list. We are adding them at about 16,000 per month which would get us up to 460,000 plus names by mid-72. We have our names categorized by demographic group, i.e. mayors, police chiefs, county health officers, editors, etc. And, also by interest groups, i.e., revenue sharing, foreign affairs, etc. Obviously duplications occur which the computer must eliminate when we mail to both demographic and interest people. Looking at the demographic types, assuming it is a pyramid at the very top being the most important influence molders such as company presidents, editors, editorial writers, etc. and at the bottom is the voter. The question is how far down that pyramid do you go in mailing material. The cost of our average mailing now is $2.4. We will have to construct a picture of that pyramid in terms of size, influence and benefit of each of the horizontal layers then decide how far down the pyramid we should accumulate names. For example, we now have 47,000 precinct chairmen, but did not send these people the State of the Union booklet because of cost. If we aren't going to use these low level influence molders we shouldn't put them on the list.

A related issue is, should we be mailing to voters, if so we need to do both demographic and political analysis on them to ascertain what material sent to who for the greatest benefit per dollar. I talked to Vince Barbara of Dallas who is the Spencer-Roberts computer mailing affiliate. They have an elaborate plan for matching the demographic and political data and then mailing pointed letters. He says he has an analysis of the 14 key states with identified Republican counties and swing counties so that we could concentrate our dollars on the key areas. The RNC also has a redistricting program which gives demographic and political correlations. This program is being used by a few states. The dollar cost of doing this is quite variable.
It would be in the $10,000 - $50,000 range for the survey assuming not too great a degree of political history on the precinct level. The third district in Minnesota was done for less than $10,000 because of good organization and effort at the local level. The letters that followed would, of course, cost in the neighborhood of 10¢ - 15¢ per letter.

The major problem we have with mailing right now is a tendency to mail for the sake of mailing. We need to mail to X hundred presidents, Y hundred editors and Z hundred academicians just because everybody thinks that is a good deal, but it may not have any effect at all if those people don't read. We do have a postcard survey starting now which may tell us whether people read what we send them. We do know that the editors do because we see editorials semi-frequenly referring back to something we sent to them.

4. Campaign -- I talked to the campaign manager of the Bill Frenzel campaign in Minnesota, being acquainted with these folks. They had a tele set-up with the Republican Congressional Committee which worked fine mechanically, but they didn't get much information out of it which was worthwhile to them, nor did they get much help from the RNC really. They had an informal link to Murray Chotiner which gave them more help than anything. They did feel it very desirable to get up-to-the-minute, if anything advance information on items that were to happen so that they would be ready to respond or exploit and felt that perhaps two mailings addresses for written material, one for the candidate and one for the campaign manager would be appropriate, and some method of flagging material which was of particular relevance.

I have also touched base with Murray Chotiner, Harry Dent, Chuck Colson, Jerry Warren on the systems we are talking about. I have had trouble getting real definitions as to what we need in that they all want everything available. Colson was easily the most interested person. He feels strongly that the political savvy for the key element which has been missing so far. I certainly agree. I also talked to Nazi ger who was equally interested and cautious.
MEMORANDUM FOR: MR. HALDEMAN
FROM: JEB S. MAGRUDER
SUBJECT: Some thoughts on the relationship between the White House, the RNC, and the Campaign Structure

To insure the reelection of the President, it is important that the functional responsibility of the three groups mentioned above be clearly defined. We will have strong leadership at the Committee, continued strong leadership emanating from the White House and, if the Attorney General is the director of the campaign, strong leadership from the campaign. Definition of functions is particularly important in light of the strong-willed and possibly incompatible chairman and co-chairman at the RNC.

I. The RNC relationship is probably the most difficult, but a strong effort must be made to insure a reasonable working relationship with the Committee. The Committee must feel it is in the main stream while at the same time not having actual authority or responsibility over either the campaign or, of course, the President. Their primary mission should be:

A. To work with the party organizations in each state to develop strong candidates and build strong state organizations.

B. To have the chairman become our chief attach spokesman, hitting O'Brien and other Democratic leaders. If Nofsiger goes to the Committee, his primary responsibility should be in helping Dole accomplish this objective.
C. To become one of the support groups for the campaign organization. It should not have the primary substantive policy role in our 1972 campaign, although Dole and Evans should be included in the official policy making body that develops campaign strategy.

Specific resource capabilities that should be considered for the RNC are the following:

1. Continuing work in developing our opinion leader mailing list.

2. Efforts to develop capabilities relating to information retrieval and other computer oriented projects.

3. Continued survey research capabilities with the final decision making still being held at the White House and/or through the campaign structure.

4. A reorientation of their youth and heritage functions so that, instead of spending money on organizational charts of ineffective groups of Hungarian refugees, we concern ourselves with spending the dollars to insure votes for the President and our candidates in 1972. The results of this work should then be used by the campaign committee for direct appeal by the President.

5. The communications and research functions should be reevaluated. Both individuals heading up these areas are, in the opinion of most of the people who have worked with them here, not effective. If we are to get results from the resource structure, we definitely need better leadership in the communications and research areas.

6. Official convention activity should be under the control of the RNC. This activity should be closely monitored by the campaign committee and the White House to insure that the convention is a positive force for reelection of the President. If the convention is the normal dreary week of confusing TV we have missed a golden opportunity. The Democrats have restructured their convention to make it more appealing to the public. Someone should give creative thought to our convention immediately.
In the next six to nine months we will probably need field men in certain areas to begin work on the campaign. Positions at the Committee could assure low visibility until the campaign structure surfaces.

The personnel at the White House have a year and a half to build the President and his programs with the public. The various resource structures within the White House -- Klein, Colson, Malek, Timmons, the Domestic Council, etc. -- should be reoriented to this activity. They should not concern themselves directly with the campaign. Each office's responsibility should be carefully defined so that any campaign role does not become counterproductive.

There are specific functions that the White House can perform better than the campaign structure i.e., the scheduling of the Cabinet probably should remain in Klein's office throughout the campaign rather than in the campaign organization; Malek's recruiting capabilities could be used to get talent for the campaign; Colson could continue high level special interest contacts here, while, at the same time, a second operation in the campaign could be directed to getting votes from these same special interest groups.

My point here is that free-lance operations should be discouraged. Clear lines of responsibility within all of these groups are essential to an effective, successful campaign.

The campaign structure can and should remain undercover for the next six to nine months. Certain functional assignments should be made soon so that exploration and evaluation of advertising, direct mail, Citizens for Nixon, etc. can be done immediately. It is my feeling that this could best be done by assigning individuals inside the government to these projects, as well as the possible use of outside individuals who are loyal Nixon supporters.

We should be exploring the use of available resources outside, such as mailing lists and information on youth that are available through companies like Readers' Digest and Pepsi Cola.

Now, while the campaign structure is in its formative stages, individuals within the government should be targeted for full-time campaign responsibilities when the structure surfaces so that there is an easy transition when we gear up for the campaign.
The most important areas for immediate exploration are the long lead time functions. We must begin now if we are to have alternatives ready when the time for decision arrives.

Reorganization of the Republican National Committee

As you have suggested, new blood at the top of the Republican National Committee gives us the opportunity to make structural and personnel changes to strengthen the Committee and to enhance the Committee's usefulness to the President and the State Committees.

The RNC has been operating in the traditional between-election role of holding the party together. The emphasis has been directed towards organizational and program support for Republican candidates. Neither functional support for the White House nor service support for the State Committees has been provided by the RNC. Consequently, much of the $6 million budget has been dissipated in "make work" efforts.

The key staff members of the RNC have been unable or unwilling to respond to White House directives. Sometimes, the problem is caused by Division Directors being "in over their heads," with insufficient technical or managerial experience to provide the leadership or technical direction required to assure implementation of requests. In other cases, the problem is caused by many staff members coming up from State Party organizations and not the President's campaign staff.

Coupled with the continued absence of the Deputy Chairman from RNC headquarters, these two problems confused lines of responsibility and authority, resulting in substantial in-fighting between Divisions and generally poor work. The Research Division, for example, was not given guidance by its Director and, therefore, was used by other Divisions for various projects, resulting in inadequate research production. Similar problems produced a wholly ineffective Communications Division.
MISSION OF RNC

The addition of Tom Evans as a full-time Co-Chairman will help resolve many of these problems. However, even Tom Evans cannot resolve all the problems and infuse new life into the RNC without a structure which supports the RNC's mission.

As we have discussed, the mission the RNC should perform over the next 18 months, and for which Senator Dole and Tom Evans are particularly qualified, is twofold:

1. to broaden the Administration's base of communications with the voters of America by developing and implementing a creative information and education program, which gives new slants to the President's policies and provides the Republican Party with the capability for consistent and effective attack on the opposition.

2. to provide limited, yet in depth, organizational and technical services to support the President's 1972 campaign effort and the needs of the State Committees.

With a Republican in the White House, the RNC does not have to, nor should it, create its own policy issues. The President's positions are the Chairman's positions and his role becomes one of selling and defending them. He also must become the Party's chief spokesman for consistent and effective attack on the opposition. In fact, he should develop the reputation as an outspoken leader of the Party machinery to such a degree that when an issue breaks, reporters automatically turn to him for reaction. Larry O'Brien receives this kind of coverage. The Republican Party does not.

The RNC should also develop needed services for national, statewide and local candidates. These services include demographic analyses, surveys, soft-ware packages, specific information on various special groups, and campaign guidelines. The RNC's strength and usefulness to both the President and State Committees will depend directly on its ability to provide such services.

RECOMMENDED STRUCTURAL CHANGES

The RNC is currently organized around distinct program or operating responsibilities, as shown in Chart I. To shift from this orientation to mission support and to ensure the limited resources (50 professional personnel and $6 million budget) are focused on this mission, the RNC organization should be modified, as shown in Chart II.

1. Tom Evans, as Chief Operating Officer, becomes primarily responsible for implementing the RNC mission and for coordinating all Committee activities through Mrs. Armstrong, a Deputy Chairman for Political Affairs, a Deputy Chairman for Communications, and four Division Directors. Tom Evans' desire to be "Mr. Inside", his take charge attitude, and his proven managerial skills make him particularly fitted for this role.

2. The position of Deputy Chairman for Political Affairs is retained. However, its function shifts from principal operating officer of the Committee to political service and get-out-the-vote functions (Administration Division and Political Division). This Deputy Chairman is to implement the RNC's mission of providing organizational and technical support services.

3. The position of Deputy Chairman for Communications is created to implement the RNC's mission of developing and implementing a creative information and education program. The Research Division and Communications Division, which many people have previously urged be combined, are linked under this Deputy Chairman. The prime functions of this office are:

   to give the Research and Communications Divisions proper direction to ensure the compilation of necessary information for appropriate users in usable form and in a timely manner to provide creative approaches to selling the President's programs. For example, brochures should be developed for the Manager, Heritage Groups which point out "What the President Has Done for the ______" (Polish, Italian, etc.); arrangements should be made for the President to be filmed with appropriate Heritage groups in appropriate places in the course of Presidential, "non-political" travels.

- to develop appropriate positions for attacking the Democratic Party and its leading Presidential contenders

- to provide the Chairman, on his speaking and political travels, with a high-level companion who can speak with authority to local press and local politicians

4. The Communications Division is broadened from the existing "production shop" to a creative marketing division with strengthened media services, the addition of a Special Groups feature desk and a speech writer, the tying together of all productions (publications, brochures, films, etc.) under a Communications Services Group, and the addition of a separate Direct Mail operation. With the increasing importance of direct mail, this operation should be separate and provided with the necessary resources to expand.

5. The Research Division retains a statistical research section, but loses data processing to the Administration Division. Statistical research is a creative function, while data processing is an on-going technical service function. Under the direction of the Deputy Chairman, this Division should supply the Chairmen and Co-Chairman with creative substantive input on issues.
6. Mrs. Armstrong assumes control of three functions -- the Women’s Division, Special Programs, and affiliate liaison (NFRW, YB, CYB, and RGA). If her role should become more public relations oriented, with a heavy speaking schedule on appropriate issues (consumer affairs and the economy, women’s role in the 1970’s, etc.), the operational functions of her job could be placed under the Political Division.

7. The Political Division is revamped to give special focus to Special Groups and to Political Service. An Assistant Director of the Political Division for Special Groups, as well as a Manager for each group, should assist to develop this significant service area.

8. A special assistant for scheduling and advancing is added to the Chairman’s office to assure proper arrangements are made for the Chairman’s travels. Ron Walker has advance men available who could fulfill this function well.

9. A general purpose special assistant is added to Co-Chairman Evans’ office for his personal needs.

RECOMMENDED PERSONNEL ACTIONS

Since organizational shifts alone will not change the RNC, it is recommended that the following personnel actions be taken:

- a replacement for Bob Hitt be found to take over the Administration Division
- Bill Low remain as Director of the Political Division
- Gordon Wade be replaced as Director of the Communications Division by a creative marketing type of person who also has broad management skills
Robert Jungman be replaced as Director of the Research Division by a broad analytical thinker with some management experience.

Frank Leonard be appointed as Manager of Communication Services

Very little is known about other RNC personnel to make a fair evaluation. Senator Dole and Tom Evans should assess their needs early and make the acquisition of top-flight personnel their first priority.

Fred Malek would be able to assist in the recruitment of needed top-level personnel. Some of these people might be found already within the Federal Government.

ADMINISTRATIVELY CONFIDENTIAL.
MEMORANDUM FOR MR. HALDEMAN
FROM: JEB S. MAGRUDER
SUBJECT: Campaign Task Forces

As you may know many of our staff political operatives both here at the White House and outside are thinking about Campaign 72. Each is haphazardly pursuing his own area of interest.

One approach to this problem is the pre-emptive Task Force. By establishing a Task Force in each of the key areas, the right thinkers are put on the right projects and the free-lancer is pulled into the system. This approach establishes target areas and thereby enables the Attorney General to establish a time frame for the campaign. One advantage is that it requires no one's full time effort so no elaborate outside organization need be established.

Suggested areas for the Task Force approach to be applied include:

- Advertising and Direct Mail;
- Polling, Computers and Research;
- Citizens Committees and the State by State Campaign Organizations;
- The 18 - 21 year old vote;
- The Black and Women's Vote;
- Middle America;
- And Democratic Contenders.

Each Task Force could have White House Staffers; individuals in Departments, such as Dick Moore, Stan Pottinger, and Don Santarelli; representatives from the RNC, such as Tom Evans or Lyn Nofziger and independent advisers such as Cliff Miller. Task Forces that should probably begin operating immediately include:

1. Advertising and Direct Mail  The basic question seems to be what type of organization and approach is appropriate for the President in 1972. Suggested members for the group include Chapin, Garment, Shakespeare, Rumsfeld and Nofziger. Rhatican could serve as the Project Manager for this Task Force.

2. Polling, Computers and Research Work has already begun on expanding our computer capabilities. A Task Force of Staff members who will know what we will need in 1972 as well as those with the technical background to determine the feasibility should be formed. The group could include Timmons, Huston, Price and Howard. Ron Baukol could act as Project Manager. The correct use and development of polling could be under the direction of Flanigan, Colson, Magruder, Dent and Safire. Dick Howard could serve as Project Manager.

3. Democratic Contenders They should be considered as a group as well as individually. The strategy of the group as coordinated by Lawrence O'Brien should be determined and appropriate responses developed. One member should be assigned to each contender to assure complete grasp on his strategy. The Task Force here for the group could include Buchanan, Price, Moore, Finch, and Nofziger. The Project Manager could be Rob Odle. The project Manager could also be a reliable person in one of the departments.

Since this is primarily a campaign tool which would draw on White House Staff members, if you approve I would like to discuss the idea with the Attorney General.

MEMORANDUM FOR FILES

Meeting with Garment, Magruder, Strachan - February 10th.

Garment generally thinks that a non-campaign might be the most effective. There will be so many campaign organizations and such a variety of activities from Muskie, McGovern, Kennedy, etc. that we might be best running a complete non-campaign.

This follows along the idea of a no convention.

We must begin thinking and planning now. We must also assure that we can accept the variety of views. Garment is obviously concerned about our reputation for stifling dissent. The task force should be self-critical.
MEMORANDUM
THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

December 8, 1970

MEMORANDUM FOR: MR. HALDEMAN
FROM: HERBERT G. KLEIN
       JEB S. MAGRUDER
SUBJECT: Campaign 1972

This memorandum analyzes some areas on which this office might focus as we move toward November of 1972.

Now that the 1970 campaign wrap-up has ended, we would like to discuss in some depth the experiences we have had which would enable us effectively to explore alternative approaches to the forthcoming Presidential campaign. Decisions should be made now so that there is time to work organizationally in preparation for an effective campaign in 1972.

We will mainly concern ourselves in these recommendations with those areas in which we have had past experience; we shall suggest ways in which those areas might be further developed.

Naturally, our domestic and foreign policies, the state of the economy, the President's approach to the campaign, and the political operation will have a major impact on the outcome of the 1972 election. We do not plan to explore those areas in this memorandum, but rather will concentrate on the organizational support activities where we can be of most assistance.

We would view whatever activities we undertake as an extension of the President's office through you to the various sub-groups which will ultimately be involved in the campaign. There will be, in 1972, the

CONFIDENTIAL/EYES ONLY
Citizens groups, the RNC, the media and creative agencies, the Cabinet, etc., all of which could be reached by the President and your office normally through the mechanisms we would set up. We are fully aware of the need for keeping in the background and this would be done particularly prior to the convention. We believe our office has set a record for handling things in this way. Obviously, there will be occasions also when the President and his key political advisers will want to deal directly with any of the above.

If you approve general concepts as outlined below, we can further develop concrete, specific and detailed suggestions.

ADVERTISING

Drawing on our experience in 1970, and spending a good deal of time in 1971 studying campaign advertising, we would gear up to handle all of the Presidential campaign advertising, including the print media; radio and television; brochures; direct mail, both by the use of mailings to our hundreds of opinion-leader mailing lists and specific voter mailings where appropriate. Again, this would mean working through a group set up at the National Committee or at the campaign headquarters, but it would best use the mechanisms we have set up during the past years. It would mean also that we would be consulting with outside experts we have built up a relationship with.

Our proposal here is that we use the first part of 1971 to look at a number of preferably small creative advertising agencies and also at various individuals involved in advertising (e.g.: media buyers, copy writers, and creative people). We would put together a number of various combinations of individuals and agencies who could handle a national campaign.

Then, in November of 1971, we would present the best of these various approaches and combinations to you and others you might select. A decision could be made at that time as to which approach we wanted to take.

The point here is that we would spend the necessary time to study all the various agencies and individuals -- for example, direct mail plays a greater role in each election and will probably be very big in 1972 due to criticism of and possible regulation of the use of television. We would carefully study all the large direct mail houses in 1971 to find out what should be done in 1972. Obviously, the direct mail must be specifically targeted, both politically and as to residents within key geographical areas. This makes the mail house selection all the more important.

Such an experience in 1971 would enable us to put together Presidential radio and television advertising, campaign films of the President with certain candidates, radio tape endorsements, etc.

Therefore, we propose that we be given permission to commence such a study which will result in a presentation to you next fall of the best alternatives.

SCHEDULING

Again, drawing on our experience in 1970, the Scheduling Office would coordinate the political activities of (1) the First Family; (2) Cabinet members, Administration officials and key White House staff who would function as "surrogate candidates" as in 1968 and; (3) celebrities. This office would perform its customary job of filling requests for speakers, but it would also decide where our people ought to be, and then find forums for them to appear.

A list of 1972 key states would be developed as soon as possible and updated as often as necessary between now and the election. Appearances by Cabinet members and others would place emphasis on these key states immediately. Primary contacts in each state should be identified as soon as possible so that the head of the scheduling operation could initiate personal contact. The various state GOP and citizens organizations would be instructed to contact the scheduling office regarding VIP appearances.

We propose that we continue our efforts in scheduling the Cabinet and other Administration officials, stepping up our activities in January of 1972 to focus almost exclusively on the key states.

In the past, most of the speeches have been made in response to invitations. These are a good source, but we are compiling a list of national association and organization conventions so that we may actively seek spots on the programs of those conventions which are advantageous to us. We also will seek information from the Cabinet officers regarding major invitations they turn down so the possibility of filling these could be reviewed. We are looking here at service clubs, fraternal organizations, labor unions, ethnic groups and others. We believe this office also can contribute more to suggestions as to possible Presidential appearances which again would be ones we would look for rather than waiting for invitations to come in.

Approve __________ _ Disapprove ________ _ Comment --------

We propose further that we schedule celebrities and the First Family (not including, of course, the President) beginning in June of 1972. During 1971 we would set up our celebrities program drawing on our experience in 1970.

Approve __________ _ Disapprove ________ _ Comment ________

Advance men, schedule coordinators, transportation coordinators, a pool of private aircraft, access to speechwriters, etc., will have to be available to the Scheduling Office in 1972 -- but not until then.

The next section in this memorandum is "Broadcast Scheduling". It is obvious that the person in charge of broadcast scheduling would work very closely with the Scheduling Office to make certain that every time an Administration official is sent out, that person would appear on local and/or regional radio and TV talk shows.

BROADCAST SCHEDULING AND LIAISON

As mentioned above, this "office" would work closely with the scheduling operation to place our traveling officials on TV. We have a good, updated card file on several hundred radio-TV talk shows, many of which were used during the campaign. We know which are cooperative and which have impact.

This office should also continue as the Administration contact point for all national television including the Sunday interview programs and late night talk shows. This avoids the problem of working at cross purposes within the Administration and gives us clout when attempting to get our people on these shows. This will be available in 1972 when we want to get out our line each week.

Prime time special TV interviews have obvious impact. The 25 special prime time, half-hour regional shows we arranged in the 1970 campaign can be substantially increased now that we have a foundation of cooperative station management people to work with.

The group station approach for interviews should be continued. This was effective last time where we hit several key stations in a group set-up with a single interview. Westinghouse, Cox and RKO General, among others, were eager to cooperate and we can expand on this by working with the major groups which together comprise a formidable TV-radio network. We are now well plugged into the Washington bureaus of the groups which generate much material for their stations.

During the campaign we learned that there is a growing availability of top government officials to tape half-hour shows even in areas where there are no regular talk shows. These are important in smaller states which will have a major bearing on the election or in medium sized cities such as Springfield, Illinois and Sacramento, California.

Where the Vice President is concerned, city or state-wide TV hookups should be encouraged rather than giving a single station an exclusive. Most stations will cooperate on this and did in North Dakota and North Carolina.

We want to stress here how important it is that the Scheduling Office, which would plan the travels of the Cabinet, Administration spokesmen, the First Family and celebrities, work closely with this "Broadcast Scheduling and Liaison" office. By itself, a scheduling office can have little effect — but working in close harmony with the other people in our office who have expertise in print and broadcast journalism, our scheduling operation can operate as a traveling press office for the Cabinet member or celebrity on the road. For example, when the President travels, the Chapin-Walker tour office plans the trip and the Ziegler press office handles the media. It is important that when Administration spokesmen ("surrogate candidates") travel, they can rely on this office to (1) find the correct forums and; (2) get them in the local and regional press and on local and regional TV. Unless we do a good job with the second category (which we can do from this office), finding the forums, getting the speakers, and advancing them means relatively little.

Approve__________ Disapprove__________ Comment__________

Also, this broadcast operation can work closely with the developing Chapin-Walker tour office to assist in top notch TV coverage of all Presidential addresses and appearances. We would keep a video film library of Presidential speeches (especially on the stump) for possible rebroadcasts. This would be done through the Navy Labs as we have discussed in the past. Two top-flight Navy cameramen could accompany the President to insure high quality film. This type of preparation would protect against media coverage and presentations of non-Presidential quality.

ATTACK AND RESPONSE DESK

This office will focus on keeping track of the opposition and providing assault material to keep them off balance. The success of such an operation depends on having, as soon as possible, the statements of the opposition. Once they come out (which we get from our research operation), we can get to work immediately on counterattacking through the scheduling operation: finding who is traveling, who has a forum, who can speak out. Additionally, in this connection, the Response Desk can move swiftly to get the Administration line out to all spokesmen and our people on the Hill (through Nofziger) so that everyone has an answer in case he's asked.

Now is not too soon to start compiling good, comprehensive fact sheets on specific policy areas, such as farm, the draft, manpower retraining, trade, etc. Comprehensive sheets on these topics can be used with good effect from now all the way to the campaign. The summer and fall of 1972 will be too late to get across the substantive correctness of the Administration's accomplishments.

It is most useful for the individual candidates to receive material before or right after a given event. The RNC should use more phone contact with the Senate races and utilize more greatly the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee's telex hookup. For the Presidential campaign, getting key information to speakers ahead of the event will be particularly important.

Approve ________ Disapprove ________ Comment __________

In 1968, there were hundreds of requests by magazines and newspapers for statements or written interviews by the candidate. Working with the Keogh staff, the Response Desk should begin during late 1971 to gear up for the deluge of requests so that we may take proper advantage of them.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE REORGANIZATION

Proposals relative to our liaison with the RNC will be forthcoming after the structure of the Committee under its new chairman has been determined. However, we should give consideration as to whether the research and communications departments at the RNC ought to be organized under the direction of a single head who would, in addition to reporting to the Republican National Chairman, develop a close relationship with this office. In other words, it might be useful to maintain the research and communications department at RNC while having someone in whom we have confidence oversee those two operations and undertake responsibility to see that they get the job done.

A consolidation of this nature would result in a greatly improved and more responsive RNC press operation, clipping and retrieval system and mailing system. Our having one person to make sure the job gets done will avoid the possibility of the two departments working at cross-purposes.

The proposal here is that we work with the new RNC chairman in suggesting the consolidation of the research and communications departments with an eye to improving the operations just described.

Approve ________ Disapprove ________ Comment __________
A separate memorandum, which was sent over earlier, outlines some of the thoughts with respect to National Committee publications and guidance of those publications by an editorial board made up of some of the creative White House staff members. There also is a need in this structure for someone of stature and press respect to be head of the press department of the National Committee.

Approve_______ Disapprove_______ Comment________

As you have previously approved, in connection with the research and retrieval systems, we would step up our efforts in collecting newspaper clippings and data on potential Democratic Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates and also Democratic spokesmen such as Fulbright. We would go back and pick up old quotes and stay on the alert for new ones.

We found that the current research and retrieval operation at the RNC did not fill our current needs or the needs we expect to have in 1972. Too much time was spent on general clipping and too little in Democratic candidates' home states, e.g.: Maine. Consequently, we are currently working hard with the RNC to get their system moving and we will discuss with the new RNC chairman the need for a man with enough political savvy to run this operation. We will also focus on issues in addition to candidates.

The system we are aiming at is a full text retrieval computer system where the full text of the document is entered -- retrieval is then done by searching for key words which appear in the text. This can be done within the budgetary limits now set at the RNC -- we expect to have, within these limitations, the best system possible.

CITIZENS FOR NIXON/AGNEW

As the various Democratic candidates for the Presidency begin to set up "citizens for" organizations and offices, we should also. This should be done on a small scale during 1971 so that our massive citizens effort can be well underway in 1972. Just as the 1968 citizens operation got going much sooner than the 1960, the 1972 organization should be put together in 1971. We would begin by setting up a group of young people in their 20's and 30's in a Washington office building -- we would like to take a hand in the recruitment of these people and direct them to some extent over the next few months. Each of them would be assigned a region of the country much as the Ellsworth-Kleindienst operation in 1968 assigned various people responsible for certain geographical sections. The purpose of this would be to find in each state the citizens group leaders with whom we would work in the 1972 campaign. Persons such as Charlie McWhorter could be utilized in this connection.

Ultimately, the purpose of the citizens operation would be to involve tens of thousands of people on behalf of the Nixon-Agnew ticket; hundreds of store fronts should be used throughout the country to enlist support for the President. Using this organization and the store fronts, we could begin to organize various ethnic and special interest groups to support the President (e.g.: Italians for Nixon).

Although we would, of necessity, have to finance the initial stages of the citizens operation, and also a Washington headquarters, the citizens operations throughout the country ought to be self-supporting. We would give them the ability to buy materials through a catalog of campaign materials which would be made available by the Washington headquarters.

Our proposal now is to set up in the early months of 1971 a small citizens operation in a Washington office building, manned by several young people who we would hire after consultation with Messrs. Chotiner, Dent, Finch, and Mitchell, the new Republican National Chairman, and whomever you might designate.

This office would work closely with Attorney General Mitchell if he is, as we assume, to be actively involved in the 1972 campaign. The finance people could also have offices with the citizens group, although the two operations would probably be kept separate as they were in 1968.

This office has worked with Mr. Mitchell and the others mentioned above in the 1970 campaign, and could continue this relationship very effectively in 1972. We would work on the organizational end of the citizens group -- the political dealings would be left to the political offices at the White House.

Approve _________ Disapprove _________ Comment _________
We could recruit young people to work on the citizen's effort, in part, by our Administration officials who speak before the various Jaycee groups, YR's, and other youth-oriented organizations. This would have to be, of course, closely coordinated with whoever is selected as chairman of the overall citizens' effort.

Since it would be difficult to get the more experienced political operatives for a full year-and-a-half, these young people could lay the necessary groundwork so that the 1972 Nixon field operation would be ready in the spring of 1972 for the more experienced types (as in 1968, Sears, McWhorter, Kleindienst and Ellsworth) to take over.

WHITE HOUSE-RNC COMMUNICATION

We will explore with WHCA and other people with technical know-how the various telephonic and electronic devices which would provide better White House-RNC communication so that paper could be transmitted back and forth more quickly than by messenger.

PRINT MEDIA LIAISON

With the addition of Van Shumway to the staff, our office will have the ability to get our line out in the print media as the Broadcast Liaison shop gets it on the air. Shumway can spend 1971 getting to know every key reporter, bureau chief, and columnist in Washington -- whereas Mr. Klein is the best person to get out our line to these people, his time is naturally limited and Shumway can assist him in this connection. Then, when a campaign game plan calls for getting a lift in print, we can draw upon our contacts and move swiftly to plant our line -- just as our project managers move quickly in their fields. Also, we can use this concept to quickly plant leaks.

This work would be, of course, augmented by the National Committee staff and further developed in special interest areas by the citizens organization.

Approve_________ Disapprove_________ Comment_________
POLLING

We propose to continue coordination of the polling and simulation activities between now and November of 1972 with the exception of the "quickie" telephone surveys which have been conducted directly from your office.

Between now and June of 1972, we would plan approximately six to eight field polls (perhaps four polls in 1971 and three in the first six months of 1972). Then, in the remainder of 1972, quickie telephone surveys as appropriate. In the fall of 1971, we would want to plan for the spring of 1972, and probably poll on a closer time cycle, with concentration perhaps on the key states.

These polls would continually check the President's image and also issues as they come into play. We would also move ahead with the simulation experiments as outlined in Mr. Magruder's memorandum to you dated July 9, 1970.

CONVENTION

Although we do not, of course, expect a challenge to the President's nomination at the Republican National Convention in 1972, we nevertheless ought to be prepared for any eventuality which might create a floor fight either on the nomination of the President or the Vice President, or on any issue or platform plank before the convention. This means, during early 1972, that we should prepare extensive background data on each delegate and alternate to the convention as they are selected beginning in New Hampshire. The person who kept these records for the President in 1968 is, as you know, on the staff in this office and could supervise the collection of similar data in 1972 -- the records could be housed at either the RNC or the citizens headquarters. In 1968 we had the most extensive records in American political history and we should do no less in 1972 in order to control what happens on the convention floor.

Furthermore, we can work with others involved in the campaign to make certain we have the proper communications equipment in the President's hotel command center, the convention hall trailer, etc. At least one person on this staff was actively involved in this area in 1968.
Lastly, because the Presidential Press Secretary will not arrive at the convention until the President arrives, this office can take the lead in establishing a Press center at the convention which is operative as soon as the first reporter arrives at the convention city. Naturally, this Press Center would work closely with the press officers of the RNC and the citizens. Herb Klein could act as the spokesman at the Center and Ron Ziegler, of course, would use the Center when he arrived with the President.

The Press center would depend on the National Committee for the routine logistical work, as in the past. When purely partisan announcements or statements are necessary, RNC or citizens personnel could make them.

In 1968, we gained a major foothold by moving more rapidly in press activities than any other candidate which gave us the advantage of constantly making news. We must make certain we are prepared to do this again in 1972. This is particularly important in a convention where, presumably, there will not be a challenge to the President's or Vice President's nomination and where the reporters will be left to make up their own stories, which inevitably will be based on divisiveness.

Approve_________ Disapprove_________ Comment_________

There is also a major need for coordinated activity to streamline the entire convention. We believe this office could make major inputs into this area in matters ranging from the problem of press on the floor of the convention hall to the best use of television. There needs to be considerably more input from others with creative ideas in Keogh's shop and from the political operatives.

We do not believe this convention should be an Atlantic City "Kingmaking" operation, but should be designed to hold TV audiences which we want to reach. This has never been accomplished since TV began at this type of convention. The National Committee has a study regarding the convention problem and we will look at it as a basic, continuing activity perhaps headed by you so that we can examine the whole problem.

STRUCTURING THE ADVERTISING ORGANIZATION
FOR THE 1972 NIXON CAMPAIGN

With the thinking and planning for the 1972 campaign to re-elect President Nixon already well underway, the purpose of this paper is to present concepts, suggestions, and recommendations for structuring the advertising organization in that campaign.

The Role of Advertising in the 1972 Campaign

In the 1972 Nixon Campaign, the role of advertising will be especially important, and could be a crucial factor, because:

A. The extreme amount of publicity given to the role of advertising in the 1968 Nixon Campaign via "The Selling of the President, 1968", as well as the new media, will focus greater attention than ever before on the 1972 Nixon Campaign advertising program;

B. Continuing preoccupation with the subject of political campaign advertising spending in general as exemplified by regular news media coverage in feature stories, television specials, etc., the 1970 campaigns, and the recent bill passed by the Congress and vetoed by the President, will all be working synergistically to make political advertising opening an issue in 1972;

C. There are already some indications of negative voter reaction against blatantly heavy advertising spending that gives the impression of trying to "buy" an election. The Citicorp campaign in New York State is, according to some private reports, one example of this.
(It should be anticipated that the Democratic Party will make a decided effort in 1972 to build a major issue out of the above points.)

D. The 1972 Campaign will offer the Republican Party
a unique opportunity in that it is the first year, since the full emergence of television as a campaign tool of profound impact, in which the Party is certain of its Presidential candidate and major program for in advance of the state Primaries and the National Convention. (It may be that this will be the first year that either major party has enjoyed this advantage to a full extent because, in 1964,
the country and the political scene were still reeling from the impact of the Kennedy assassination and its uncertain carry-over effects) Thus, the Republican Party will have an unparalleled opportunity for advance detailed planning and development of its national advertising program.
Structuring the Advertising Machinery

The biggest problem in structuring an advertising organization for any political campaign is to find, or develop, the machinery to meet the job done, i.e., the advertising agency and its system of suppliers of goods and services who can execute the plans in the most effective and professional manner possible. For a national political campaign it can be an enormous problem.

The immediate reaction to this problem is to turn to large, established, and highly reputable national advertising agencies. However, that alternative fades as a practical possibility considering that most major candidates do not want and will not take on a major national campaign because of possible problems with primary clients, the disruption it causes in service and personnel, lack of experience in the field, and the uncertainty of the whole thing. Thus, a campaign committee is sometimes left with a choice of a very few large, but often not truly top-shelf agencies who have the space and structural framework to take the effort on, but who also may well be interested in handling the accounts in order to bolster a campaign reputation, etc. The result is often adequate but not outstanding organization and people.

Using established advertising agencies also presents problems for the campaign committee. The committee loses some control over both the expenditure and accounting of the advertising funds (the latter was a problem in 1980); an almost inevitable personnel problem is created by the necessary imposition of key committee people over agency personnel; security becomes more of a problem; there is no assurance that the majority of the personnel assigned to the account will be committed to the cause and in a political campaign, better and more effective work comes from those who are personally committed than from those who are doing it strictly for percentage reasons on a short term basis; in the world of today’s advertising agencies, it is very thin likely that the majority of “creative” people will be identical to a national Republican campaign; because of the type of contractual agreement most agencies would require, the financial aspects of hiring a regular advertising agency would be costly when the money could be used more effectively in winning the election.

While there are undoubtedly exceptions to the rule and it might be possible to find a top notch agency both willing and able to handle a national political campaign without many of the potential problems outlined above, there are two other alternatives for the 1972 Eisenhower Campaign which offer a better way, and therefore, are recommended:

1. Setting Up A Special Agency for the Campaign

This method, which has been undertaken before, involves setting up a “house” agency for the specific purpose of supplying advertising for the specific campaign. It is staffed by experts in the political advertising field plus any additional personnel needed from established agencies through the AAAA “anchor and loan” system. It has these advantages:
- There are no client conflicts for problems of disruption of agency services to the regular list of clients;
- Personnel can be chosen selectively on the basis of past experience, special expertise, personal condition, and loyalty (there are a number of very people who worked in the 1968 Campaign who could form a nucleus tomorrow or be available whenever they are needed as they now operate on an individual consulting basis);
- Because it is an organization set up for just one purpose, the Campaign Committee has direct control of the operation (the Committee's "Advertising Director" referred to earlier, could well be the "President" of this special agency);
- Such better control of finances, both in terms of expenditure and for local reporting purposes (while "seed money" would be necessary at the beginning, once advertising is produced and placed such an agency would be able to operate on income from real and production combinations thus freezing core dollars for direct advertising purposes, and would be less costly in general because there is no need to show
a profit, etc.);
- A much greater degree of security would be achieved;
- A great degree of flexibility is attained in that the Campaign Committee can decide to start with a small nucleus and expand as the campaign progresses
and needs arise;
- The Campaign Committee pays and pays only those services which are needed and directly involved with the specific campaign. The special agency sets up the special tiny center for special services as well,
for a field advertising program, possibly research,
contact with various state and local agencies, etc.

2. Hiring a Specialized Political Advertising Firm:

The past few years has seen the establishment and growth of firms who specialize in political campaign advertising.
I do not know of any, as they are presently structured, who have the experience or the close knowledge of the Nixon operation to be able to handle such an assignment. However, I understand that the Allison/Trelawen organization may very well expand to the point where it would be a logical choice. It probably would (and certainly could) include many of the same people who worked in the 1968 Campaign who would be a part of the "special agency" outlined in the point immediately above.

The hiring of this firm, or one like it, would give the Campaign Committee many of the same advantages as the creation of a "special agency" except that there would be a little less direct control and the financial situation would be a bit different (and perhaps a little more costly because of a profit factor). At the same time, it would obviate the necessity of building an organization "from scratch" and if such a firm were to be inclined, or even encouraged, to take on some key campaigns for Senator and Governor, it could be a way of ensuring the best coordinated political campaign in history.

Considering the importance of the advertising function in the 1972 Nixon Campaign, I believe that the suggestions and recommendations
I have outlined herein would significantly increase the effectiveness of the advertising portion of the campaign plan. Because of the volatile nature of a political campaign and of advertising, the problems will never be entirely eliminated, but these recommendations are presented with the objective of greatly minimizing them in the 1972 Nixon Campaign effort.

BY HAND
A CITIZENS CAMPAIGN FOR 1972

There are more Democrats than Republicans in this country and more Independents than both. Among the young people a majority consider themselves Independents. Therefore, President Nixon must go well outside the bounds of his own party registration (as he did in 1968) in order to be re-elected.

Methods. Television will be a significant factor in convincing Independents and Democrats to vote for President Nixon as will the aggressive get-out-the-vote activities of the Republican organization. The most important factor, of course, will be the maximum utilization of the Office of the President, who is the leader of all the people. A necessary element of this campaign will be an active "Citizens" committee (Citcom).

Citcom Objective. Citcoms, both nationally and at the local level, will be formed to recruit Independents and Democrats to work for campaign organizations, especially in states or counties where the Republican organization is weak. In addition, Citcoms can be used to persuade (e.g. through newspaper ads, television commercials and mailings) where Republican sponsorship of such media might be suspect. If properly utilized, as in the Willkie campaign of 1940 and the Eisenhower campaign in 1952, Citcoms can generate an enthusiasm impossible for the regular party organization to attain.

Scope of this Memorandum. This memorandum will be, at best, a check list for our coming discussion of the campaign. To thoroughly review all of the elements raised in this brief paper would take a number of weeks, but the project must begin now. Points to be discussed include a timetable, budget, personnel, form of organization, evaluation of the 1968 citizens effort, and, of perhaps immediate concern, the question of how and to what extent to utilize the dollars set aside in the $5.9 million Republican National Committee budget for 1971 for areas (e.g. Veterans; nationalities or heritage) which are traditionally included in the citizens area of the campaign.

Traditional Citcoms. There is a tendency in political campaigns to do things as they were done before. Citcoms have become part of this methodology, with an organization set up for every state, frequently with the same personnel that served four years before. I believe that this is an error. Although we may decide to have at least a token Citcom within each state, it is important to determine early the areas in which the major effort is needed and to concentrate on those states. The delicate business of working with the state Republican organization, instantly jealous and chary of any rival political organization within the state, must also begin early. Using the same committees as before is generally a mistake. This deprives the Citcoms of the aura of spontaneity which they should have at the local level and convives the appearance of just another old political organization. There are exceptions to this of course and they must be recognized early.

Special Interest Groups. Groups such as Veterans, doctors, aged, nationalities (heritage) are generally in the citizens panoply.
The reasoning is that one's identity as a "Veteran" transcends party lines and therefore an appeal to this particular identity
of the voter should not be made by the national or local party organization. If used in the same way as they have been in the past, with the same sterile hacks leading these groups as do every four years, they will not be productive. However, if keyed into the legislative elements in the Nixon program, they can be quite effective. At the present time, most of these groups are included in the RNC budget and their programs should be reviewed immediately to make sure that this money is being spent in the re-election of the President, rather than in some self-perpetuating aim of the RNC or the particular leaders of these various groups.

Issue-Oriented Groups. For the purposes of this memo, I shall refer to these groups as "major-issue groups" and "minor-issue groups." Thus, a group like the Tell It To Hanoi Committee or Americans for Winning the Peace is formed on a major issue of supporting the President in his quest for peace. These committees can draw Independents and Democrats of prominence in their membership and can be used for mailings of a "non-partisan" posture endorsing the President's position. These groups can be most useful, but their utility may diminish somewhat with the frequency of their use in the political campaign.

It is in the minor-issue groups that I believe the most effective modern campaigning can be accomplished in the citizens area.

Examples of "minor issues" are gun control or restrictions on spending by U.S. citizens travelling abroad or trade restrictions on textiles. The issues are "minor" only to the extent that they do not seek the broad consensus or have the broad appeal that the issue of the Vietnam War has, for example. But these issues may be decisive in obtaining the support of hunters or travel agents or textile manufacturers or workers.

Effective work in the minor issue area requires a good deal of preparation and considerable lead-time. The point here is to exploit the President's positions on specific issues. Thus, in 1968, when the candidate had made a statement to the effect that he thought LBJ's restrictions on tourist spending abroad to be ill-advised, this statement was published by our Citcom at that time in the travel agents' national magazine and an organization of Travel Agents for Nixon was set up. A most important factor here is obtaining the appropriate mailing list to circulate this group. Also, knowledge of trade association journals or other journals which appeal to special groups is important. (An article from the March 17 1970 WALL STREET JOURNAL which describes the way that magazines are publishing demographic editions in which different ads appear in different sections of the country is helpful in understanding what could be done here. Of course, we do not want to publish demographic editions of any national political or Citcom magazines. But we would want to zero in, by mailings and other methods, on people who would have special receptivity to Nixon positions. In certain instances, this can be keyed to fund-raising as well.

PRIORITIES

A small unit should be established to carry out the work that has to be done throughout 1971 in designing the Citcom campaign. One man should study the use of the new demographic methods and should become familiar with marketing references and techniques of current use in advertising and business. Also, this man should review some of the personnel active in this field to see who might be brought into the campaign as a specialist in this area if necessary. At the same time, each of the projects and the personnel of the 1968 Citizens effort should be reviewed. To the extent that projects failed to meet the test of an effective Citcom -- to recruit and persuade -- they should be abandoned. Mailing lists should be located and priced. Trade associations (and their own group, The Society of Association Executives) should be reviewed so that they can be plugged in at the earliest instance. Of course, the Nixon program should be analyzed from a "major issue" and "minor issue" standpoint so that favorable statements by the President can be utilized to appeal to these groups. Favorable statements by Democrats and Independents (e.g. on family assistance, revenue-sharing and the New Federalism generally) should be cataloged for maximum exploitation during the campaign. All of this work should be begun immediately. Out of it will come a comprehensive plan for the Citcom effort in 1972.

BUDGET

All of the work for 1971 should be accomplished under the budget of the Office of the President and the budget for the Republican National Committee. I am particularly concerned about this latter area. The RNC staff should be given assignments to aid in the 1972 campaign planning. This can be done, of course, without having any of those staff members familiar with the "big picture" of the campaign at this time. It may be that certain staff specialists should be hired by the RNC to do this work. In addition to the RNC, corporations and foundations can supply some of the special studies needed. My point is that no great additional expenditure need be set aside to begin the Citcom work now.

THE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

The Presidency itself is the great asset which the opposition does not possess. Consider two examples in the Citcom area: (1) endorsements by prominent Democrats and Independents can be most important in the 1972 campaign. It is undoubtedly too early to obtain these now, but a study should be made by a Citcom unit on the White House staff of potential endorsers of the President and the cultivation of some of these people can begin now, with appropriate invitations and letters. (2) Pro-Administration enthusiasm should be noted and exploited. At the upcoming White House Conference on Youth, a special report should be made of favorable comments and these people should be cultivated. (The entire youth area deserves special examination, an assignment which may be too broad for the Citcom unit.) As a general policy, mailings from the President and releases to special publications can be increased in late 1971 and further increased in 1972. This activity may be the preserve of some other members of the staff, but the Citcom unit should at least be kept informed. In a sense, the entire campaign will be an effort to maximize the recognition in all quarters of the credit which the Administration should receive for the job it is doing. At a time when most of the campaign staff is focusing on the "major issues," the special function of the Citcom unit will be to insure that "major issues," which may well decide the outcome of the election, are properly exploited.

effort, and, of perhaps immediate concern, the question of how and to what extent to utilize the dollars set aside in the $5.9 million Republican National Committee budget for 1971 for areas (e.g. Veterans; nationalities or heritage) which are traditionally included in the citizens area of the campaign.

Traditional Citizens. There is a tendency in political campaigns to do things as they were done before. Citizens have become part of this methodology, with an organization set up for every state, frequently with the same personnel that served four years before.
I believe that this is an error. Although we may decide to have at least a token Citizens within each state, it is important to determine early the areas in which the major effort is needed and to concentrate on these states. The delicate business of working with the state Republican organization, instantly jealous and shy of any rival political organization within the state, must also begin early. Using the same committees as before is generally a mistake. This deprives the Citizens of the aura of spontaneity which they should have at the local level and conveys the appearance of just another old political organization. There are exceptions to this of course and they must be recognized early.

Special Interest Groups. Groups such as Veterans, doctors, aged, nationalities (oriances) are generally in the citizens' panoply.
The reasoning in that one's identity as a "Veteran" transcends party lines and therefore an appeal to this particular identity
of the voter should not be made by the national or local party organization. If used in the same way as they have been in the past, with the same sterile hacks leading these groups as do every four years, they will not be productive. However, if keyed into the legislative elements in the Nixon program, they can be quite effective. At the present time, most of these groups are included in the KEC budget and their programs should be reined immediately to make sure that this money is being spent in the re-election of the President, rather than in some self-perpetuating aim of the KEC or the particular leaders of these various groups.

Issue-Oriented Groups. For the purposes of this memo, I shall refer to these groups as "major-issue groups" and "minor-issue groups." Thus, a group like the We'll It To Hanoi Committee or Americans for Winning the Peace is formed on a major issue of supporting the President in his quest for peace. These committees can draw Independents and Democrats of prominence in their membership and can be used for mailings of a "non-partisan" purpose endorsing the President's position. These groups can be most useful, but their utility may diminish somewhat with the frequency of their use in the political campaign.

It is in the "minor-issue groups" that I believe the most effective modern campaigning can be accomplished in the citizens area.

Examples of "minor issues" are gun-control or restrictions on spending by U.S. citizens travelling abroad or trade restrictions on textiles. The issues are "minor" only to the extent that they do not break the broad consensus or have the broad appeal that the issue of the Vietnam War has, for example. But these issues may deceive in obtaining the support of hunters or travel agents or textile manufacturers or workers.

Effective work in the minor issue area requires a good deal of preparation and considerable lead-time. The point here is to exploit the President's positions on specific issues. Thus, in 1968, when the candidate had made a statement to the effect that he thought the restrictions on tourist spending abroad to be ill-advised, this statement was published by our Citcom at that time in the travel agents' national magazine and an organization of travel agents for Nixon was set up. A most important factor here is obtaining the appropriate mailing list to circularize this group. Also, knowledge of trade association journals or other journals which appeal to special groups is important. An article from the March 17 1970 WALL STREET JOURNAL which describes the way that magazines are publishing demographic editions in which different ads appear in different sections of the country is helpful in understanding what could be done here. Of course, we do not want to publish demographic editions of any national political or Citcom magazines. But we would want to zero in, by mailings and other methods, on people who would have special receptivity to Nixon positions. In certain instances, this can be keyed to fund-raising as well.

PRIORITIES

A small unit should be established to carry out the work that has to be done throughout 1971 in designing the Citcom campaign. One man should study the use of the new demographic methods and should become familiar with marketing references and techniques of current use in advertising and business. Also, this man should review some of the personnel active in this field to see who might be brought into the campaign as a specialist in this area if necessary. At the same time, each of the projects and the personnel of the 1968 Citcom effort should be reviewed. To the extent that projects failed to meet the test of an effective Citcom -- to recruit and persuade -- they should be abandoned. Mailing lists should be located and priced. Trade associations (and their own group, The Society of Association Executives) should be reviewed so that they can be plugged in at the earliest instance. Of course, the Nixon program should be analyzed from a "major issue" and "minor issue" standpoint so that favorable statements by the President can be utilized to appeal to these groups. Favorable statements by Democrats and Independents (e.g. on family assistance, revenue-sharing and the New Federalism generally) should be cataloged for maximum exploitation during the campaign. All of this work should be begun immediately. Out of it will come a comprehensive plan for the Citcom effort in 1972.

BUDGET

All of the work for 1971 should be accomplished under the budget of the Office of the President and the budget for the Republican National Committee. I am particularly concerned about this latter aspect because there should be given assignments to aid in the 1972 campaign planning. This can be done, of course, without having any of those staff members familiar with the "big picture" of the campaign at this time. It may be that certain staff specialists should be hired by the RNC to do this work. In addition to the RNC, corporations and foundations can supply some of the special studies needed. My point is that no great additional expenditure need be set aside to begin the Citcom work now.

THE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

The Presidency itself is the greatest asset which the opposition does not possess. Consider two examples in the Citcom area:
(1) endorsements by prominent Democrats and Independents can be most important in the 1972 campaign. It is undoubtedly too eary to obtain these now, but a study should be made by a Citcom unit on the White House staff or potential endorsers of the President and the cultivation of some of those people can begin now, with appropriate invitations and letters. (2) Pro-Administration enthusiasts should be noted and exploited. At the upcoming White House Conference on Youth, a special report should be made of favorable comments and these people should be cultivated. (The entire youth area deserves special examination, an assignment which may be too broad for the Citcom unit.) As a general policy, mailings from the President and releases to special publications can be increased in late 1971 and further increased in 1972. This activity may be the preserve of some other members of the staff, but the Citcom unit should at least be kept informed.
In a sense, the entire campaign will be an effort to maximize the recognition in all quarters of the credit which the Administration should receive for the job it is doing. At a time when most of the campaign staff is focusing on the "major issues," the special function of the Citcom unit will be to insure that "minor issues," which may well decide the outcome of the election, are properly exploited.
Some States a New Edition
For Businessmen: Others Focus on the Well-to-Do

By Thomas L. Foster

The Wall Street Journal
March 17, 1950

The end of the 20th year of a remarkable advertising explosion is being marked by the introduction of a new edition of the Wall Street Journal. The change is being made in response to demands from business men in states where the Journal is not now published.

In the past, the Journal has been available only in New York and Washington. The new edition will be published in several cities, including Boston, Philadelph ia, Chicago, and Los Angeles.

The new edition will be available in a variety of formats, including daily and Sunday editions. It will also feature special sections on business and finance.

In addition to the new editions, the Journal will continue to publish its regular sections on national and international news, politics, and economics.

The Journal's new emphasis on business news is expected to attract a wider audience of readers who are interested in the economy and its impact on their daily lives.

For advertisers, the new edition offers an opportunity to reach a larger and more diverse audience.

The Journal's circulation has grown significantly over the past 20 years, and its readership now includes many of the nation's top executives and business leaders.

In conclusion, the Journal's new edition is a response to the changing needs of its readers and advertisers. It marks a new chapter in the Journal's history and promises to continue its role as a leading source of news and information for the business community.

This memorandum summarizes our understanding of your views on the need to begin thinking about and planning for the 1972 campaign. We have outlined our understanding of the objectives to be reached, the proposed action steps to achieve these objectives, and a plan of implementation which we intend to follow. We have also attached a list of potential candidates for required positions.

Objectives

The purpose of our immediate effort is to lay the groundwork for the '72 campaign by:

- developing a small, low-visibility national organizational framework, giving priority first to primary States and then to key electoral States, and,
- developing an appropriate network of functional and logistical support for the full-blown campaign effort in 1972, including the appropriate communication networks, information systems, and computer flexibility.

Action Steps

Several action steps will have to be taken in the next few weeks to begin moving toward these objectives. These steps, in order of priority, include:

1. Recruitment of "outside" State coordinators, with priority given first to primary States and then to key electoral States. This step will include field visits to key locations to open lines of communication, show the flag, and begin local operations.
2. Recruitment of 2 - 3 "in-house (located either here at the White House or at the Republican National Committee) desk men.

3. Recruitment of an "in-house" computer and software specialist to develop the necessary computer capability.

4. Recruitment of an "in-house" research specialist to monitor the opposition, both Democrat and Republican, to develop the necessary statistical foundation for campaign decisions, to monitor the polling operation, and to pull together appropriate State-by-State analyses of issues, voter behavior, and the like.

5. Inventorying and cataloging all existing resources which might be used in the '72 campaign, including those resources available in the White House, National Committee, Congressional Committee, State Committees, 1968 campaign records, etc.

6. Development of a detailed "game plan" of necessary activities between now and the start of the actual campaign.
