Monday, September 6.

President still at Camp David. He did his Labor Day radio talk at noon from there. I called him right afterwards and we just talked briefly. He was pleased with it and says that if we can get the radio talks down to 1,500 words, he can do them as often as we have something to say, because they're very easy for him to do. He seemed to feel that it had gone well.

End of September 6.
