Friday, December 22.

I had no contact with the President today. He's still in Key Biscayne. Ziegler did call in the evening to say that he had had a long session with the President, who is very upset, because he was sort of feeling he was left out alone; nobody worrying about things. He was disturbed by a wire story covering the number of people who were having to give up their Christmas with their families in order to service the President while he's in Florida. As a result of this, the President saying that he'll probably return to Washington on Christmas Eve, which would be bad news indeed.
