Press conference. President holed up all day at Century Plaza - only a couple of calls about more material. Had me in for a little while at noon to run through random notes regarding schedule, etc.

Press conference went well, except for power failure that cut audio in the room just before air time. Got it partly fixed and President went on three minutes late, fixed it five minutes after that. Don't know cause. NBC is pool, and there has been some technical problem every time they are pool. President took 18 questions - half from West Coast reporters. Pace was a little slow - but good show overall. He was a little concerned on chopper back that it had been too slow. Very good general reaction.
