4:20PM General Wade's wife called with a message from Ambassador James Kemper: he has a position for John Erlichman in Palm Springs, California with his firm. Did not wish to become involved nor to be transferred. Merely wanted to get the message (which pleased her greatly) to you. Please confirm to her that JE has received the message.

Richard Nixon Law Office Preservation Committee

Most anxious to get the desk that was in the President's first law office -- it is in Washington -- feel if we had it soon it would be helpful and would create some good publicity to counteract some of the terrible things they have been writing about the President

If it has to be brought back to California by commercial plane they would be glad to pay the charges -- whatever necessary.

M -- pull file when we get back to Washington and talk to RMW

Trustee of the Nixon law office preservation group -- buying and restoring the President's first law office. Want to open the law office to ~~xxx~~ the public the first of August -- want to get back the desk the President had originally in the law office -- have talked to the members of the family about this -- sent a letter to Miss Woods about it a month ago and in that letter requested some pictures which were sent to me.

Understand the President has it in Washington at the White House.
after the President's first Inauguration the Marines came and got the desk and took it to Washington.

RMW - I held this until we could check the files, etc. here in Washington -- the desk she is referring to is evidently the one discussed in the Ben Roberts' file attached -- it looks like the desk she is talking about is one the President made and it was given to him at the Anaheim homecoming along with the football bench, etc.

Shall I tell George Rochester that the President would still like to keep the desk here with the thought that it would go in the Library as was decided in 1969?
