RE: Cabinet Post for Maury Stans

Loren Berry has called here several times and has asked me to pass along the following:

"The reasons I am for Maury for the spot at Treasury are:

"1. He is honest, on the square and he is sound.

"2. He would be tremendously loyal to RMN.

I think the man in that spot must have loyalty to the President.

"I think that is probably most important because the money situation looks complicated at this time. I think Maury would use plain common horse sense. I believe he would be a natural and he would do the job.

"3. They are putting up big trial balloons for other people.

"Certainly when RMN picked Agnew he made the right decision (I personally believe this helped in the border states). I am interested in seeing this sail along as well as possible. Certainly it is always better when you have men or people around you who are loyal to you."
"Maury Stans is that to the last degree. There is no question. I think you know he is not pressing anything for himself at all.

"At the same time, I am a little on the outside -- I have a right to express my opinion."

RE: William Rentschler of Illinois

On November 13 when Mrs. Reynolds was in to see Maury Stans she asked a friend of RMN to be sure to pass along what she had just told Maury -- "that if Bill Rentschler gets an appointment in Washington it will really upset the apple cart in Illinois."

She, as you probably know, was one of our contributors and helped raise money from others throughout the campaign.

On the same subject -- a man who does know Bill well -- and likes him -- said if we were considering him we should first look into the personal side because we would not want to be embarrassed. (I will give you details on this if there is any need.)
“Let us create a society where we can live in peace with each other without fearing our lives or our property.”

"Justice must involve rights of all people - not only those accused of crime, but the rights of vast majority which constitutes the decent law-abiding public."

Is the U.S. choosing the best battleground for resisting
Communist aggression?

How far is this country prepared to pursue the only way ahead in which it is better itself be trapped?
The belief that security can be gained by throwing a small state to the wolves is a fatal delusion.
Following is the victory statement made Wednesday afternoon by President-Elect Richard M. Nixon. The gift Mr. Nixon refers to at the end of this statement is the replica of the Presidential seal made by Mr. Nixon's daughter, Julie.

Ladies and gentlemen: I didn't realize so many of you would stay up so late. I want to express first my grateful appreciation to all of those in this room, but more than that, through the medium of television and radio, to the thousands, and, I understand, millions, across the country who worked for our cause.

I know that many that I will never have a chance to speak to personally gave hours and days of time, and we will always be grateful for what you did.

And we hope we can be worthy of the support that we had of the thousands of volunteer workers in state after state who did far beyond the call of duty in helping us to the victory that was won.

I, as you probably have heard, have received a very gracious message from the Vice President congratulating me for winning the election. I have also had a telephone conversation with him, and I thought I might share with you and also our television audience some of the thoughts that I expressed to him in that telephone conversation.

I congratulated him for his gallant and courageous fight against great odds. I admire a fighter, and he proved himself to be one. He never gave up and he gave us a good fight.
I also told him that as he finished this campaign that I know exactly how he felt. I know how it feels to lose a close one.

Having lost a close one eight years ago and having won a close one this year, I can say this -- winning's a lot more fun.

But, I would like to express to him and also to the thousands who worked for him -- because he, like myself, had a great corps of volunteer workers -- many young people as well as others -- a bit of philosophy that has guided me through the years of defeat toward this victory.

It is this: A great philosophy is never one without defeat. It is always one without fear. What is important is that a man or a woman engage in battle, be in the arena, participate, and I hope that all of those who supported Mr. Humphrey will continue their interest in politics. They will perhaps be in the other party; we may be contesting again. Who knows? But the important thing is that our process in this country works better when we have devoted, dedicated people who supported him and lost not to be discouraged but to continue their interest and to go on to other areas of public service.

Also, I would like to report that I had a conversation today with Mrs. Eisenhower. She, of course, was pleased with the result and she said the General was elated. This afternoon
I plan to move, to go to Key Biscayne, Florida, with my family for a few days off -- three days, I think -- but on the way we're going to stop in Washington and call on the General.

And I've also received a very gracious wire from President Johnson from Austin, Texas, in which he congratulated me and indicated his desire to be of assistance in the next Administration. I, in turn, pledge again to him my assistance and cooperation in the interim period between now and the Inauguration in any activity that may be helpful in bringing the peace to the world that we all want.

And I look forward in the next Administration to having a relationship with former President Johnson such as President Eisenhower has had with him. Those who have served in this office, can know the tremendous burdens and they have so much to offer in their years of what will be called retirement.

And, then, one final thought that I would like to leave with regard to the character of the new Administration. I saw many signs in this campaign. Some of them were not friendly and some were very friendly. But the one that touched me the most was one that I saw in Deshler, Ohio at the end of a long day of whistle-stopping; a little town, I suppose five times the population was there in the dusk, almost impossible to see -- but a teen-ager held up a sign, "Bring Us Together."
And that will be the great objective of this Administration at the outset -- to bring the American people together. This will be an open Administration, open to new ideas, open to men and women of both parties, open to the critics as well as those who support us.

We want to bridge the generation gap. We want to bridge the gap between the races. We want to bring America together. And I am confident that this task is one that we can undertake and one in which we will be successful.

And, finally, if I could close on one personal note, I mentioned my many supporters around the country and the wonderful people in this room who stayed up all the night -- and so did I -- but, surrounding me are four people who have meant much to this campaign and to my life.

My wife, who has endured more of my speeches than even the members of the press, and you know how tired you can get of it. Believe me, it takes a real trouper to hear a speech over and over again for 21 years and act as if it was new each time.

And, of course, my two daughters who were able to participate in this campaign and gave us a tremendous lift by their campaigning all over the country and 35 states; and David Eisenhower, who campaigned very effectively in his own right.

Now, I think all of you probably wondered how I felt about winning the election, and naturally, in my press conferences I always gave the appearance of complete optimism that we were going to win. That is what you have to say.

But I want all of you to know that there were moments when we had doubts. And all of us had doubts. But there was one member of our family, I learned, that had no doubts at all because immediately after we saw the final return this morning at 9:30 or so on television that the Illinois votes were now considered to be in our column, my daughter Julie asked me to come into her room, that she had a present for me that she had made and worked on all the time during these trips that she was taking across the country.

And when you see this present, you will see she never had any doubt at all. Here it is.

Ladies and gentlemen: To show you how unsophisticated I am about this kind of art, when I saw it, I said, "isn't that needlepoint?" And said, "no, it's crewel." But it's the kindest thing that I had happen, even though it's crewel.
Following is the victory statement made Wednesday afternoon by President-elect Richard M. Nixon. The gift Mr. Nixon refers to at the end of this statement is the replica of the presidential seal made by Mr. Nixon's daughter, Julie.

RE: Diane Tankoos

Pat Nixon called here today to say that she would like to be sure that Diane Tankoos is given consideration for a job in the White House office. Diane has turned in her application and sent one to Mrs. Nixon as well -- her special interest is being on Mrs. Nixon's staff but at least someplace in the White House. I know nothing about her skills - she is a nice girl and a friend of Tricia -- went to school with her.

I suggest you check her out with John Brown, Anne Volz, et al at 450 Park Avenue. (Possibly she could at least type letters - if she is fast enough - on Pat's staff or someplace like that.)

John Davies called me Sunday night to say that he was going to be in Ohio for a couple of days as his wife's father had died. He gave me the numbers, etc. in case we wanted to get in touch. However, he said he would be coming into New York from there and that he is very much interested in the type of job that Bob Finch talked with him about.

I believe the job Bob talked with him about was the idea of John being available to handle some people who had to have some special treatment. (It was just about that definite as I recall).

At any rate, he will be here in a day or so wanting to talk about a job.

Dear Dr. and Mrs. Graham:

Blessings!

Kindly bear with me as I explain the enclosures.

When President Elect Richard Nixon gave his Victory Speech on the day after election, I was deeply impressed when he told about the teenager at one of his campaign stops, who carried a sign with the words that stood out in his mind, .....Bring Us Together. This beautiful thought moved me so, that right then and there, I was inspired to write the enclosed song, entitled "The Prayer Of Our Nation", which is built around that theme. If it hadn't been that Mr. Nixon relayed this incident, I would never have written this particular song.

Many people here in Los Angeles who have heard the song, including ministers, feel the song is very befitting to be used for the Inaugural Ceremonies of President Elect Nixon.

Since it is so difficult to get mail personally to Mr. Nixon at this busy time, with the Inauguration close at hand, a few ministers, including the Reverend Paul W. Kopp, Minister of Temple Baptist Church here in Los Angeles, suggested that perhaps, thru you, Dr. Graham, this song, "The Prayer Of Our Nation", could come to the attention of Richard Nixon, with the Inauguration purpose in mind. Because you and he are close friends, after you have heard the enclosed demo tape to see how the song sounds and what it is all about, perhaps you will feel led of God, after you have prayed about it, to directly contact Mr. Nixon, concerning this matter. While this request seems impossible in the natural, if this pleases the Lord, then I firmly believe....."With God, all things are possible." My earnest prayer is that the song proves to be a blessing throughout our great Country. I give Him all the glory and honor for the inspiration of "The Prayer Of Our Nation".

Perhaps you may like the song well enough to use it in your own program or Crusades. Since I am an ASCAP member, the song is automatically licensed for public performance.

More Power To You, as He continues to use you and those of your staff for His service in winning souls for Christ! Awaiting your reply!

Gratefully, prayerfully yours,

(Mrs.) Patty S. Gallucci

(ASCAP)

Lord, hear the prayer of our Nation,
Unite our hearts with love.
Bring us together, closely together,
In brotherhood, peace from above.
Bridge the gap of our weakness,
Remove the thoughts that are wrong.
We want to follow Thy precepts,
Always in Thee to be strong.
Wonderful Father, we thank Thee
For all the joyful years
Of merciful kindness, bountiful goodness,
For blessing our Country so dear.
Help us to be ever faithful,
True to the cause all the way.
This is the prayer of our Nation,
To honor God ev'ryday.
Amen.

Dear Mr. Hovey:

Because of the vast amount of mail we have been receiving since Election Day this is the first opportunity I have had to thank you for your letter of December 4.

You may be sure that we are pleased to see the interesting clippings you send from time to time. With the help of such good friends and supporters from around the country I am sure we will all be able to make the Nixon Administration the success the country needs it to be.

For
Rose Mary Woods, personal sec'y to Mr Nixon.

My dear Rose Mary Woods:

Just a note about the clippings—and me. Even before Mr Nixon was into the primaries I sent him clippings of L.A.TIMES items, etc., I thought would interest him, also an occasional letter, such as one suggesting Marnie Nixon (the voice of the movie stars) to lead the national anthem at the inauguration, a letter to accompany a book about the new psychiatric approaches to mental problems, a letter suggesting a book, "How to Make the Rest of Your Life the BEST of Your Life", as an entertaining, inspiring change from politics (right after the nomination).

In a recent bunch of clippings I asked the recipient to tell me if they were not helpful, (saving everybody a time), I addressed them until very recently, to Mr Nixon’s campaign headquarters in New York, attn. his brother or G. Douglas Hofs, Jr.

I would like you, please, to be good enough to stop me if you see no need of these clippings.

I know Mr Nixon (sports fan) has not seen the enclosed L.A.T. story about USC’s coach McKay’s new plan to use O.J. Simpson to better advantage than against Notre Dame, to beat Ohio State in the Rose Bowl.

The only thing I’m looking for is the success of Mr. Nixon and his team in guiding the country and the world to better things. I’m 76, Cornell ’14, wife and others say I look and act 56.

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year,
