THE SENIOR CLASS

THOMSON
WELCH

■ The year 1930 ushers in autumn, and Ye Friendly college welcomes the class of '34 with no sign of depression, in spirit at least . . . . Frosh numerals on the historic rock and innumerable bonfires on Fire hill with the class of '33 as the slave-drivers intent on keeping the home fires burning and the green-capped men and green-bibbed women busy. . . . The know-nothings bumping up against hard-boiled 'universityism' in the person of Dr. Albert Upton whose love of dumb animals, at that time, extended only to Jerry . . . Juniors alleviate sufferings of these mentally tortured neophytes with a steak dinner and dance at a wayside inn. . . . Twenty-two women pledge societies and Dean Triggs organizes a second men's society 'boaring' heavily into prospective Franklin material . . . College Knights see the light of day and pick Dick Nixon and Harris to carry on the great work. Gone all humility . . . only arrogance and a satanic ambition to go places when the half-baked pot-pourri return as sophs. The thespians in The Man in the Bowler Hat convince Whittier College that its dramatic program is too narrow, hence the birth of the drama board of control. . . . And the first spring festival in which said enthusiasts sell their alma mater for the first time. . . . But things began to pop when the junior class play, Bird in Hand, starring Richard Nixon, opened the dramatic program of five annual major productions. And the world 'beyond the rock' began to take notice when the Poets barged through for three championships. . . . All of which called for celebration . . . dance programs, theatre stubs, orchids and sparklers putting in their appearance. Sheepskins . . . after eight student body dances offered as part of the new social deal . . . a sparkling theater party to see Francis Lederer in Autumn Crocus, reawakening all the little thrills of matinee idoling . . . A swanky 'last' with our junior pals at the Vista del Arroyo . . . dinner at the Harris home where the year's acting president spins his delightful idealisms of Arden . . . and Dr. Dexter's signing the hard-won releases which don't seem desirable in quite the same sense they did four years ago . . . for they are tacitly telling the goodbye to days of collegiate capering.

MEMORANDUM

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

February 14, 1969

TO: Miss Mondlock
FROM: Rose Mary Woods

Rose Mary Woods

I believe we should hold on to the letters regarding the President's genealogy until we can get from our files that are in storage all of the information that has been compiled on the Nixon and Milhous families by Dr. Raymond M. Bell of Washington and Jefferson College.

Dr. Bell started sending us information in 1953 and during the Vice Presidential years we did have a mimeographed sheet that we sent out which took care of the majority of inquiries.

I should have this file within the next few days so we can pull some of this information together.

✓ bcc: Anne Higgins -- please pull these files when you go over to F. O. B. the first of the week.

Thanks

SUBJECT: THE PRESIDENT'S FAMILY TREE

Here is another family tree furnished us by Harry McLaughlin of York, Pennsylvania. It may well be a complete duplicate of what you have, but possibly it will fill in some of the blank spaces.

this in your spare time during the evenings!

WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON COLLEGE
WASHINGTON, PENNSYLVANIA

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS

9 March 1969

Dear Miss Woods,

I was sorry to read of the death of Dr. Nixon at State College. I was a colleague of his there from 1930 to 1937.

You may be interested in what he once wrote to me:

I can see that what you are doing in putting the puzzle together is exciting and intriguing.

Perhaps all of us would do a better job of recording whence and whither, if we knew we might someday be placed before the public, beyond our own circle of co-workers or neighbors.

There are many people interested in our president's forebears. The New Yorker is working on an article.

Sincerely yours,

Raymond M. Bell
