This donation is made subject to the following understanding which has heretofore been approved by you and Mr. Rockwell:

1. The Smithsonian Institution will use the within funds to acquire title to the Rockwell portrait of President Nixon for the express purpose of hanging same in the National Portrait Gallery in Washington, D.C.

2. As soon as practical, the National Portrait Gallery will cause to be prepared a plaque to be affixed to the portrait which shall bear the following inscription:

"Donated to the People of the United States

Dear Frank:

Permission has been granted for Mr. Erickson and the three associates listed in his letter to you of April 23 to survey the President's property at San Clemente for possible archaeological sites. The survey may be conducted either during the period of June 17-18 or June 21-22.

Aside from the conditions imposed on their examination which we have previously discussed, I am certain that you will wish to remind Mr. Erickson that should a site be discovered absolutely no burden will be placed on the President to take any further action unless he so desires. The President, of course, is most interested in reading the report on their findings.

With my best regards,

Sincerely,

Dear Tom:

Mrs. Nixon and I were distressed to learn of your mother's death, and want you to know that you are in our thoughts and prayers.

She must have derived tremendous pride and satisfaction in the last years of her life from your success and from her knowledge of your dedication to your valuable work here at the White House.

We hope that you may find comfort in this thought and in all the happy memories you must have, and that God may bless you with His special strength at this difficult time.

The President thinks it would be a nice gesture if you were to suggest to Don Nixon that Clara Jane would be welcome to come down to San Clemente any time she wants, and cut some of the flowers there for her personal use or for gifts to old friends.

Along the same line, the President would like you to arrange to have two or three dozen fresh figs sent to him from the trees out there if it can be worked out without too much trouble.

Sorry to bother you with this, but your help will be appreciated.

Dear Herb:

If a donor establishes a charitable trust with the unexpressed intent that a second party, let us say Mr. P, should ultimately have the right to appoint the beneficiary of the charitable trust upon the happening of some event certain, and the donor makes periodic contributions to the charitable trust, distributing only such income as the new tax bill may require to qualify, and assuming that upon the happening of the event certain Mr. P then designates that the corpus of the trust be distributed to college W for the endowment of a chair in political science what are the tax consequences to Mr. P, if any?

Let us assume that donor and Mr. P have an oral understanding as to Mr. P's right of appointment. Assume further that donor's willingness to enter into this arrangement stems from a feeling of moral obligation to Mr. P for P's generosity in the termination of a business arrangement but does not actually constitute quid pro quo or consideration in the technical sense.

I'd appreciate having your opinion on this as soon as you can conveniently provide it.

Maurice Stans

November 22, 1968

Dear Peter:

I have the utmost confidence in Mr. Nixon's ability and persuasion to have the best Cabinet. Of course, we all know that his selections will have much to do with the kind of Administration we all expect him to have.

I hope that he will appoint Robert Finch as Secretary of HEW. Generally speaking, I don't think people realize how important this Department is. We certainly will have more and continuing problems in the health area. Welfare probably has been as mismanaged as anything the Government has a part in, and this includes the Poverty Program where we have certainly thrown money down a rat hole.

Having worked with Maurice Stans for the last sixteen months, I have developed the highest regard for his ability and integrity. The integrity of our fiscal and monetary program needs a man of great strength as Secretary of the Treasury. In my opinion, Maurice would make an excellent Secretary of the Treasury.

I have had the opportunity during the Campaign to become acquainted with Governor Tom Dewey. I have always been impressed with his knowledge and ability. He would certainly make a great Secretary of State, and would be able to put into effect Dick's foreign policy, which I agree with one hundred percent.

Since September of 1967 one of the real privileges I have received from this Campaign was to become better acquainted with John Mitchell. What ability and what judgment! I am always impressed with the kind of people that John has gathered around Mr. Nixon during this Campaign. I have not met one person who has had his hand out or who has not been working unselfishly for the main reason we have all worked, and that was to help elect Mr. Nixon as President. A man who helped in the selection process and kept everything in line must be in Mr. Nixon's Cabinet. Law and Order was the main issue of the Campaign. Our Attorney General must be a strong man. John would make a great Attorney General, and even though it would be a great sacrifice, he would be doing a great service to his Country. I hope this suggestion becomes a fact.

Of course, in the Middle West, we are interested in the Secretary of Agriculture and this is probably the most thankless job of all. I think this position should be filled by a Middle Westerner in line with Mr. Nixon's pre-election statements that he wanted a person who knew something about agriculture, and that he would appoint a man who would talk to him about the farm problems and not someone to talk to the farmer about the Government's problems. I am going to make a recommendation next week for one of the Under-Secretaries of Agriculture, but I do not have a candidate that I would recommend as Secretary.

It is my feeling that the Presidency of the Import-Export Bank and the World Bank is extremely important to the new Administration. These two banks can be most helpful in solving our balance of payment problems and keeping the dollar strong; also, both are extremely important in our foreign relations and the respect that we can regain in world affairs. In my opinion, one of the leading bankers in the Country is George Champion. He would do a great job as President of the World Bank.

If we get any further ideas, we will pass them along. And, of course, you can either "take them or leave them," but I do have great confidence in the future. Thanks for the lunch.

Best personal regards,

George B. Cook

You are going to be invited to attend the dedication of the Lincoln Center campus of Fordham University in New York on May sixteenth.

I would not ordinarily call this to your attention except for the fact that one of the invitees is John Mulcahy, whom as you know is a major contributor.

On the assumption that you are not able to attend, I hope that your staff will arrange to see that his participation in the invitation is acknowledged.

Thank you for your letter of November 22. merit to what you say, and I hope that you will have a chance to talk to Mr. Nixon personally.

However, I suggest that you postpone your request for a meeting until after the Inauguration when you can perhaps visit with him in the White House or attend some affair there that would give you the opportunity of seeing him.

I am sure you understand that right now he is devoting all his time to the selection of a Cabinet.

Honorable Richard N. Nixon

Dear Mr. Nixon:

I write to encourage the appointment of Mr. Maurice Stans as Secretary of the Treasury in your administration.

Our country demands honesty and integrity, along with ability, for this most important position. We have been deprived of these attributes for the past three years. The low regard in which our word in fiscal and monetary affairs is held throughout the world is an eloquent tribute to the deceit and total lack of ability and integrity from Messrs. Fowler, Demming and Wallace.

Mr. Stans has a demonstrated record of ability and integrity, coupled with a realistic approach to the monetary problems of today. I would ask you to remember that it is the New York banking community and their unrealistic advice who have contributed to the unrest in the world today, and I would ask you to look elsewhere for your senior financial advice.

As a Republican, a Nixon supporter since 1952, and a member of RN Associates, I am most pleased with your victory and I offer you every good wish.

Sincerely yours,
