I am concerned about the backtracking in Chuck's 4th paragraph. His points must be made to keep us honest but they should be more positive, if possible.

i.e. "I feel that the question of whether the Connally reservation is as specific and as effective as it might be is worthy of our further discussion. I am sure you also recognize that any responsible candidate would have to insist on more precise and specific terms than "loyalty oaths" and "fundamental educational values," etc.

Bob:

More I think of it, the more I figure it might be well to meet some group or other of these (in Mr. White's phrase) "reactionary irresponsible" head-on. And to do it soon, candidly (as to likes and differences), with maximum publicity -- and in connection with a group that may be a bit less irresponsible than some.

Except for its general stuffiness (note that fantastic opening sentence in the covering letter), and its air of holier-than-the-Pope, the fact is pretty much as I state it in my suggested draft reply: on major principle, III and these people are using about the same words and focusing on about the same issues (though meaning rather different things, in precise detail). They might be just the right audience for our purposes.

In any event: I'd sure leave the question of a subsequent appearance very much "open" to negotiation. And I'd answer 'em, for now, as follows —
Dear

I want to thank you for your very forthright letter, written to me as an announced candidate for the Governorship, requesting my views as they relate to the principles and objectives of your own Conservative Co-ordinating Council. And I want, also, to meet candor with candor by attempting to indicate possible areas of agreement and disagreement.

But first -- as to your invitation that I appear before your group -- my schedule is so tight until roughly the first of the year as to make impossible even one additional commitment. Could I have a raincheck, therefore, for the next two months? Then we ought to be able to arrange a mutually convenient time for early in 1962.

As I study your Policy Declaration, I am struck by the fact that, in every essential, your thinking and mine would seem to be just about the same. Certainly this is the case when you affirm the overriding principles of local self-government, of the free enterprise system, and of positive pro-Americanism as the best and most effective means of opposing subversive ideologies. Right down the line -- on all eight points -- we are in substantial agreement on basic beliefs.

Some differences of detail -- and I suspect, relatively minor detail at that -- might arise over your list of ten Requisites for Candidacy. For example, I am not sure that the present Connally Reservation is as specific, and thus as effective, as it might be in spelling out the limits of World Court jurisdiction where U.S. security interests are involved. And I would want to know, with more precision, what is meant by "loyalty oaths" in item 3 and by "fundamental educational values" in item 4. But to repeat, I should think we could discuss such questions in a free give-and-take and with the mutual forbearance that is really possible only among those who agree initially on major principles.
I hope you will feel quite free to share these comments with your membership and that you will renew your invitation for a question-answer session at some time in the not too distant future. Your responsible approach to the coming campaigns is, in my view, well and properly oriented to the issues, and surely the candidates have a parallel responsibility to make known their own principles and stands on the vital issues confronting our State and nation.

With every good wish,
October 13, 1961

Mr. Richard Nixon
523 W. 6th Street
Room 1035
Los Angeles 14, California

Dear Mr. Nixon:

According to our best information, you have indicated your intention to seek the office of Governor for the State of California. Our Conservative Co-ordinating Council, the principles and objectives of which are enclosed, is very interested in your candidacy. It is our intention to seek out and endorse those candidates who most clearly reflect our philosophy.

If you are interested in receiving the support of a group who can put hundreds of precinct workers in the field for you, and a group that represents a variety of organizations throughout Orange County, would you please fill out the enclosed questionnaire and return it to us as soon as possible. We would further appreciate it if you would indicate an evening that would be convenient for you to appear before our group for an interview and a summation of your philosophy on the role of government as it relates to the freedom of the individual.

Yours sincerely,

CONSERVATIVE CO-ORDINATING COUNCIL

Pat Patterson, Chairman
