John Dean, Esquire
Counsel to the President
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear John:

In making up an estate plan I am going to have to know whether or not you are subject to any trust funds from your own family or other sources and whether or not you have "powers of appointment" in any living trust or testamentary trust. You might check that before we get together again and review your estate matters.

Enclosed herewith for your use, if necessary, is a xerox copy of Martha's application for the White House Fellowship Program. We were both pleasantly surprised to learn that Martha was sixth in her Senior class at Georgetown Medical School.

We both regret missing your Christmas party on December 22, 1972 and please express our regrets to Maureen. We had fully intended to come until Martha's parents, who were coming in from Texas by plane, were delayed for several hours because of bad weather. We ended up by being at National Airport most of the evening of the 22nd waiting for them to arrive.

John -

I am interested in the deputy general counsel's position at the Environmental Protection Agency if it has not been filled. With my experience in litigation and environmental cases I could be of help.

I heard Fred and you had a nice visit with Dave. He's a very sharp person -

My best,
Tommy
